KIDNAPER, DESPERATE AND HUNGRY, CORNERED BY POSSE

Today

Hindenburg's Election. Important to the Whole World.

Mr. Krech's Financial Party.

Von Maltzan Replies.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.)

FIELD MARSHAL VON HINDENBURG is elected President of the German Republic. It seems to us, across the water, a good deal like electing a lion president of a community of lambs.

Blood is thicker than water; war and its memories, with their promise of future victory, revenge and glory, is more powerful than peaceful republicanism and industry.

YOU ARE TOLD that the votes of German women decided the election in Von Hindenburg's favor. The German women, staying at home, suffered more than the men that went to war. The men lived in excitement, fighting, and what food there was went into their stomachs.

The women saw their children hungry and thin, and spent the years in waiting misery.

More than the men, perhaps, they long to see at the head of Germany a man that will make up for those hard years.

IT IS SAID also that the women want a man in authority that will curb "ungovernable youth, reckless and wild."

Von Hindenburg, his career, his face, his appearance before the public, with his hand upon his sword, stands for discipline. If that is what the women want, they will probably GET it.

The only trouble for the present is that they may also get MORE WAR. But they won't see another war in their generation if 90 per cent. of the Germans have THEIR way.

THE CITIZENSHIP of France and the high finance of the United States will look upon Von Hindenburg's election with alarm. American finance, interested in the Dawes plan, willing and anxious to lend money at a high rate of interest PLUS SAFETY, is expected to withdraw into its shell now.

THE FRENCH will declare the election of Von Hindenburg to be Germany's challenge to the world and to France especially.

But the French should be the last to criticize the Germans in this election.

When the French wanted a President for their Republic, they took Napoleon, who proceeded by a coup d'etat to make himself Emperor.

The French chose him because he called to their minds the grandeur and conquests of Napoleon First.

AND WHEN Napoleon was shamefully beaten and ran from the Germans to save his skin, as the Kaiser ran away from Germany to save his skin, the French elected as President Marshal MacMahon, the best imitation of a military hero within reach.

THE GERMANS have done in electing Von Hindenburg exactly what the French did when they chose, first Napoleon and then MacMahon, to head their Republic.

A NUMBER of Americans, including the most important financiers in New York, yesterday attended a luncheon given by A. W. Krech, president of the Equitable Trust Company, in honor of Baron Von Maltzan, German Ambassador to the United States. They heard direct from the German Ambassador a reply to Mr. Krech's direct question—What effect will the election of Marshal Von Hindenburg have upon Germany and her relations with other nations? Is that election calculated to hinder Germany's progress and discourage the hope of better times for the German people?

Baron Von Maltzan replied emphatically "No" to the latter of Mr. Krech's question.

He pointed out, quite reasonably, that General Von Hindenburg, on becoming President, takes an oath of loyalty to the German Republic and is not the kind of man to break such an oath.

AMBASSADOR VON MALTZAN told the audience of leading American business men

GIRL SLAYER SPURNS MARRIAGE OFFERS AS SHE FIGHTS FOR LIFE

By BERT FORD.

New Haven, Ct., April 28.—Offers of marriage have provoked rather than flattered Olympia Macri, eighteen-year-old concert singer, on trial here for first degree murder for the alleged shooting of Jack Bagnano, "cabaret sheik," on February 26.

"If a millionaire proposed marriage I wouldn't think enough of it even to answer him," said the little prisoner today as she fondled her seven-months-old daughter, Lucy, the "love child" that was the innocent cause of the tragedy.

Three additional jurors were chosen up to the noon recess today, making a total of nine now in the box.

"In my plight I have no time to think of marriage or anything but vindication of myself and child," added Olympia, her dark eyes flashing as she granted a hurried interview to the Boston Evening American just before the proceedings at

POLICE SUPPRESS HARVARD ADVOCATE

"Neo-Platonic Love" and other pictures and verses in the current number of The Harvard Advocate were today declared by Judge John Duff of the Municipal Court to be without the pale of decency, and at his suggestion Superintendent of Police Crowley ordered the issue suppressed in Boston.

Special service men were sent out with instructions to arrest anybody detected making a sale.

Prosecution will follow if such sales are made, Judge Duff having promised to issue warrants upon request.

At the same time the Cambridge police prepared to follow Boston's

REWARD FOR HIS CAPTURE IS OFFERED BY VERMONT

Granville, Vt., April 28.—Half crazed by hunger and with an iron ring of angry pursuers closing in on him, Earl Woodward is frantically beating his way through the underbrush north of Braintree Hill with little Lucille Chatterton, the eleven-year-old girl he abducted from her father's home.

Governor Franklin S. Billings today offered a reward of $100 for the man who locates Woodward.

The pursuers have ben told by Attorney-General Frank C. Archibald to bring the fugitive in dead or alive.

Woodward has not been sighted, but the woodsmen in the hunt believe they have him cornered and that his capture is a matter of hours.

The chase now extends into the Bull Run district of Southern Byfield, beyond the town of Braintree.

It is fairly certain that Woodward's food supply is exhausted and that he is merely following the animal instinct to keep going.

His movements, as they have been traced for the last few hours, show that he no longer has any coherent plan of escape.

He is running away from his determined pursuers to delay as long as possible the inevitable hour surrender.

There is no longer any doubt that Woodward and the girl started a raid on a Braintree Hill farm the night before last, in search of food, or that they were scared away. Nor is there any doubt that the fugitive, despite his supposed courage, sent the little girl out to scout for danger before he emerged from the underbrush into the clearing.

The prints of his new rubbers in the soft soil with the light footprints of a child beside them told the posse the story of his sortie for provisions. The tracks were followed for a mile and a half toward the dense wilder-

BEGIN SEARCH OF EVERY BOAT ALONG COAST

New York, April 28 (I.N.S.)—Coast guard cutters and patrol boats are today under new orders from Washington to stop and search every vessel approaching the New Jersey and Long Island coasts. Thus, said coast guard officers, a veritable blockade will be thrown along the coast in an attempt to halt the importation of contraband liquor.

The prohibition land forces also began redoubling their efforts following disclosures that bootleggers had been receiving advance information on raids by "listening in" on phone wires from the Syracuse office.

Cecily Murray, a stenographer there, was suspended, charged with "tipping" bootleggers about proposed raids along the Canadian border.

The two-masted French auxiliary schooner Mousmee, carrying liquor valued at $150,000, and a motor boat found near it, were brought into port today by the crew of the coast guard boat CG-161, which made the seizures twenty miles off Asbury Park, N. J.

Ten men found aboard the Mousmee and four on the motor boat were placed under guard. The crew of the Mousmee, including Captain Maurice Lafitte, will be charged with attempting to land liquor.

Coast guard officers said the Mousmee was seized last October under the name of Diamontina and with a British crew. At that time 1,400 cases of liquor were found in her hold.

B. & M. WINS VICTORY IN BUS LINE FIGHT

Lowell, April 28.—Inter-State bus traffic was declared to be illegal by Judge Enright in District Court here today in ruling that the Inter-State Stage Line, operating between Boston and Manchester, N. H., might not pick up passengers in this city.

Counsel for the bus company appealed from the decision, which was said to be without precedent.

The Boston & Maine Railroad and the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company were joint plaintiffs.

Although opponents in a bus war of their own, the Boston & Maine and Eastern Massachusetts Company joined hands in the legal battle against the Inter-State carrier, which they both claimed was robbing their natural revenues.

HINDENBURG TELLS GERMANS TO 'WORK'

Berlin, April 28 (I.N.S.). — The Communists today suggested a "24-hour general strike" by the "union of the entire proletariat, on the occasion of Hindenberg's entry into Berlin."

Berlin, Germany, April 28 (I.N.S.).—With military precision, the former Field Marshal and now President-elect Paul Von Hindenburg, let it be known at Hanover today that his policy will be:

"Get to work."

This was the news after Chancellor Luther talked an hour today with the new President of the German Republic.

The conference was taken by political observers to mean that Luther would continue to occupy that office. Immediate changes in other ministers also was said to be unlikely. Strict observance of the Dawes plan has been a feature of Luther's administration.

Germany began gradually today to turn its thought and attention back to the traditional church, home and

WOMAN IS ARRESTED AS FIREBUG SUSPECT

A woman, charged with having set three fires in the house where she was employed, was arrested today by Sergeant Gillis of the Jamaica Plain station.

The woman is said to be a maid in the home of Richard Prout, No. 590 Weld street, Jamaica Plain, but the police refused to make public her name.

The arrest took place following a series of mysterious fires in the Prout home during the last week. The first started a week ago in the cellar, and was extinguished with small loss.

Last Monday a second fire was discovered in a closet, and this also was extinguished with slight damage. The night of the same day members of the family found that the bed occupied by one of the Prouty children was afire, and notified the police.

The maid probably will be sent to the Psychopathic Hospital.

ness of Lost Nation Mountain before darkness closed down on the posse led by the child's father.

ROADS GUARDED.

Every road leading to the mountain is guarded by armed men who have been ordered by Attorney-General Frank C. Archibald to shoot to kill. Woodward is trapped. Archibald arrived at Granville, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Griggs, one of the most noted woodsmen of the north country, and took personal charge of the search.

Meanwhile the child's father, vowing vengeance and swearing that he will kill the ex-convict with his own hands, has searched the mountains for seventy-two hours without rest. He, with two cousins of the little girl, made their way over the mountains from Granville in four hours when news was flashed that the fugitive had been seen.

CHILD HAD COLD.

Woodward was seen by Wales Sargent, a Braintree Hill farmer, when he made a raid on the farm in an effort to steal food. It is believed that Woodward, not daring to fire a rifle for fear of detection, is running out of provisions. Feeling against Woodward runs high here. Threats of taking the law into their own hands have been made frequently by residents. All work on farms has been halted and the two saw mills in the town have been closed that the men might assist in the search. Children have been ordered by their mothers to stay near their homes in fear of a raid by the hunted man.

When Lucile was abducted from her home by the man her father befriended, she wore only a pair of thin rubbers tied about her feet with strings. She did not wear shoes and after the first few hours in the woods, the makeshift footwear would be gone.

In addition, the child was suffering from a severe cold. The child is undernourished, weighing only eighty-five pounds and the entire country-side is convinced that unless the abductor is run down within a few hours the girl will be dead.

Work throughout the countryside has been practically abandoned as farmers and millworkers, armed with rifles, shotguns—any kind of weapons—join in the hunt.

Scores of farmers have abandoned their Spring ploughing to join in the chase.

There is one hope for the safety of the little victim of the kidnaping. Woodward knows every cave and crevice within a territory of miles, and it is certain he has found shelter in these caves for his little victim at night.

FIND CAMPS.

The night air is unusually chilly and the girl wore only a khaki blouse and bloomers when she was abducted. This is scarcely enough protection for the chilly breezes that sweep through the woods these Spring days.

The scores of armed men searching the woods do not need the advice to take no chances but shoot, when they finally encounter Woodward. The people of the countryside know that he is a crack shot with a rifle—has been known frequently to drop a bullet at the feet of a man 1,000 yards distant.

It is possible that somewhere in the woods the abductor may have a cache of supplies. For many months Woodward lived in the open, and he established scores of camps during that time.

One after another the posses have found these camps, but there are still others that remain undiscovered, and in any one of these the abductor may be found.

DIRIGIBLE PORTO RICAN FLIGHT DELAYED A DAY

Lakehurst, N. J., April 28 (I.N.S.).—The U. S. dirigible Los Angeles, which was to have soared to Porto Rico today, will not leave until tomorrow, it was indicated this morning. Weather conditions were unsatisfactory.

"A windstorm is predicted," Captain George W. Steele, executive officer of the dirigible, said.

The trip to Porto Rico will cover more than 3,000 miles. With good flying conditions the Los Angeles wouldwould make Porto Rico in 35 hours.

WASHINGTON NEWSPRINT RATE RULED TOO HIGH

Washington, April 28.—The Interstate Commerce Commission held that Washington publishers are paying too great a freight rate on newsprint from Northwestern producing points as compared with Baltimore.

UNWED MOTHER AND BABY VS. WIDOW AND ORPHAN SON

FOREST FIRES AGAIN RAGE IN TWO STATES

Sweeping through tinder-dry woodlands and brush, forest fires caused thousands of dollars' damage in Massachusetts and Rhode Island during the past twenty-four hours.

More than 2,000 acres were burned over in the vicinity of Cotuit on Cape Cod, with much damage to cranberry and strawberry beds.

The Sandwich, Hyannis, Osterville and Falmouth fire departments joined in fighting the blaze, assisted by hundreds of volunteers. The firefighters were led by Chief A. S. Chiles of Cotuit.

At Burlington a forest fire burning over a four-mile front destroyed two sheds and timber worth a small fortune. Several homes near the Wilmington line were threatened. The fire was fought by volunteers under Forest Warden Skelton.

FIVE COWS ARE BURNED.

In Boylston five cows perished and several tons of hay, together with a large quantity of grain, were destroyed when a barn owned by John Sienkiewicz, near Rocky Pond, was burned during a forest fire that swept more than 150 acres.

The flames spread to the State reservation in West Boylston and to the Wachusetts reservoir section, and were not extinguished until damage of more than $3,000 was caused.

Following the revocation of the ban on fishing in Rhode Island, fire broke out in North Kingston in that State and raged over more than 1,000 acres. Hundreds of volunteers battled the flames, which were brought under control early today.

TWO SQUARE MILES SWEPT.

A second fire in the same section burned sixty cords of hardwood, swept over ninety acres of woodland and destroyed a woodshed.

A brush fire in the Buck Hill section of Burrillville, R. I., burned over an area of two square miles, destroying three small houses, the homes of woodchoppers, and spread toward Webster, Mass.

More than 300 men worked to subdue flames that swept over two square miles in the Pawtuxet valley and for a time menaced the village of Hope.

WOMAN ILL IN PERIL AT PROVIDENCE FIRE

Providence, April 28.—Mrs. Nellie Condry of No. 106 Broad street was overcome by smoke from a fire which started in the rear of an ice box in the butcher shop of Leo Kopit, on the street floor and tied up traffic on Broad street from Empire to Franklin.

Mrs. Condry was in bed, recovering from an illness when the fire started. She was assisted to the street by her husband. She was given medical treatment and afterwards removed to the home of a relative.

GIRL WILL KEEP BABY'S PHOTO IN HER CELL

By MAXINE McBRIDE.

New Haven, Ct., April 28.—Today was "ladies' day" at the reopening for the week of the Olympia Macri murder trial.

A veritable receiving line and waiting line of women clustered about the little Italian girl to wish her "God speed" for the week's ordeal ahead of her.

Olympia, the centre of feminine attention, was smiling brightly and said that the severe headache of the week-end was "all well now."

"I only hope it doesn't begin again when I think of all the jurymen I have to face," she said.

A picture of baby Lucy finished for her by the staff photographer of the Boston Evening American wreathed her face in pleased smiles.

"Oh baby," she said, reaching for the picture hungrily. "I wanted a picture of baby so much. Now I will frame this and hang it up in the cell so she will be always with me during the trial."

FOR WOMEN ON JURY.

Mrs. Josepha Whitney, the New Haven club and society woman who has offered a home to the girl if she is acquitted, was present and sat close behind Olympia before the trial got under way, squeezing her hand and whispering words of comfort.

Mrs. Whitney made the following statements:

"The women who have come to sit at this trial are liable to have their motives misunderstood, but we have to brave that danger because we feel that women should be here when a young girl is being tried.

"I believe that women should be sitting on the jury trying this girl, and that society has got to establish an equal standard of morals.

HER PLANS FOR OLYMPIA.

"We should be indignant that motherhood is not taken into account and considered a vital factor in this case. Mothers are really performing the highest national service and we should know what kind of a life we are preparing for this baby, Lucy, who is the citizen of the future.

"It is a time when woman must take a public stand for our principles."

The life Mrs. Whitney has planned for Olympia, if her acquittal is secured, is to be the one she would give any of her own daughters, she stated. Olympia's musical talent is to be fostered and little baby Lucy is to be tenderly and carefully reared.

CHEERED BY HER GIFT.

The mails today brought Olympia many cheering letters and one especially written by the James Sexton family of Stratford, Ct., which was accompanied by a rosary blessed by Pope Benedict in 1920, and a little embroidered heart, a relic of Saint Francis de Sales.

Olympia smiled and nodded over the little gifts and the Sexton family letter.

"Everybody is very good," she said in her slow, sad voice. "It helps so much to know that many people are praying and thinking of my little baby and me."

Olympia's mother and father were in faithful attendance at court, as were her aunt and her sister, Theresa. They conversed quietly with the girl and said that it has been an anxious interval of waiting for them over the week-end.

Crucifix, Blessed by Pope, Sent to Girl Slayer

New Haven, Ct., April 28 (I.N.S.).—Olympia Macri, 18-year-old girl accused of killing her former suitor, exhibited to her friends today a crucifix which she had received by mail just before she left the county jail for the courthouse. A friend, in sending it, wrote that the crucifix had been dipped in holy water at Lourdes, France, and blessed by the Pope.

WOMAN TRIES TO END LIFE BY 'ACCIDENT'

New York, April 28 (I.N.S.).—Mystery veiled the shooting of Mrs. Gloria Bryan, wealthy sports woman, found unconscious with a wound in her breast, in the fashionable Brace Bridge Hall apartment in Brooklyn, today.

Neighbors, attracted by the sound of the shot, found her. The bullet was from her own big-game rifle.

The young woman's husband, William, was in the dining room when the shot was heard, as was her mother, Mrs. Irene Hadley. They rushed to the room where Mrs. Bryant had gone, after breakfast. Beside Mrs. Bryant was this note:

"Just an accident. Looking for my bathrobe. I love you. Don't talk."

the fourth day of the trial got under way.

"Such matters are out of place in my case. I have had a few letters mentioning marriage if I am freed, but it is not true that I have received sixty-two proposals through the mail.

"I consider letters of this sort trash. They might be all right for a movie actress, but I am a poor working girl in great trouble and I have myself and child to think about.

APPRECIATES SYMPATHY.

"Such things don't turn my head. Such letters don't interest me, but I do appreciate the nice letters sent by men and women all over the country containing words of comfort and sympathy.

"I like best the interest taken in little Lucy and the kind thoughts expressed for her.

"I am impatient to have the trial over. I waited eagerly for court to begin again today. I thought much about it since adjournment on Friday. I like the jurors already selected. They appear to be men who will be fair.

"You don't know how good it is between court sessions to hug and kiss Lucy. Often when I get blue in court I think of her and I feel all right again. If I didn't have Lucy I don't know what I would do.

"The pictures of her which I got from the newspaper photographer today I shall keep in my cell to cheer me. Jailer Baldwin and his wife and Mrs. Joseph Whitney, who talked with me again, have all been very kind."

The State of Connecticut experienced another hard day today in the effort to complete the jury. Six jurors only were chosen in the three court days last week.

PICK SEVENTH JURYMAN.

The court excused the first four men called today. The first man had formed an opinion. The second talesman examined said, "I am utterly opposed to executing a woman." The third talesman was excused because his son attended school with Bagnano, the slain cabaret dancer and singer.

The fourth was too fixed in his opinion that the accused girl "was guilty of something."

Frank D. Abbott, sixty-two, retired hardware dealer of Derby, was selected as the seventh juror, notwithstanding the fact that he said in connection with the Loeb-Leopold cases "hanging is not severe in some cases."

kitchen, but with the question firmly implanted in its mind:

"Where are we, now that General von Hindenburg has been elected President?"

The only definite answer Germany could find to this perplexing question was that as President "the old man of the Masurian Lakes" was going to put the nation to work. And this opinion, freely voiced in the street, appeared to meet with popular approval.

Brief utterances which have come from Hindenburg since Sunday have indicated he has, if any, only a remote thought that the nation ever can return to a monarchy.

What the politicians have to say about Hindenburg's victory was expected to be heard when the Reichstag begins sessions today.

Hindenburg's election is regarded here as a serious blow to the idea of an Austrian union with Germany, and is deplored by the Austrian newspapers of all parties.

The victory of the Nationalists has been closely followed by the resumption of the band concerts in the public squares of Berlin, customary in the days of the monarchy, and which consisted chiefly of the rendition of patriotic airs.

At the Wittenberg Platz yesterday afternoon the band played the "Army March No. 9," the "Kaiser Waltz," by Strauss, the "Fredericux Rex March," the "Black, White and Red" imperial flag song, and "Deutschland ueber Alles."

Diplomats to Go Slow; Will Not Provoke Germany

Paris, April 28 (AP)—The Allied Council of Ambassadors at its meeting tomorrow will, it is understood, give Marshal Foch's report on Germany's violations of the Versailles treaty a quick scrutiny and will then await further study of the situation by the chancelleries of the various interested powers before taking action.

This policy, it was said in official circles today, will be pursued because the allies desire above all to avoid anything that might provoke further reaction in Germany such as was manifested in the election of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg to the presidency.

Continued occupation of the Cologne area presents no urgent problem to the allies, it was pointed out, and they can without inconvenience go slow.

Negotiations concerning the German security pact offer will be conducted on the same policy of avoiding anything that could be used as fuel for the reactionary campaign in Germany.

DECEIVES MOTHER AS GIRL CALLS ON PHONE

Verbally Berated as He Tries to End Friendship With "Estelle"

Back in prison after nearly fourteen years of freedom, Donald Lowrie wonders "Why?" and he shudders as he hears the tap, tap, tap of hammers driving nails into the plain wooden coffin of a convict whose hand he had clasped twenty minutes earlier. While still depressed with the thought—"men are worse than beasts," he is visited by Fremont Older, the man who had urged the writing of his earlier book, "My Life in Prison." Older asked him to tell why he was back in a cell. "Not for yourself," said Older. "You don't count; none of us do, as individuals; but there ought to be a moral in it, especially if you will lay bare your innermost secrets and analyze yourself truly." And so, sitting in the rays of the life-giving Arizona sun, a victim of his own weakness and slowly dying of tuberculosis, Donald Lowrie tells of the road of sin and shame which led him back to a felon's cell. His first step was in going to a party with a friend. He meets a girl, Estelle, and is strongly attracted to her. He quarrels with her, but they make up and Lowrie drinks heavily. He then meets "Edith," a San Francisco society girl who seeks his company.

By DONALD LOWRIE

ARIZONA PENITENTIARY, Florence, Ariz., April 28.—Estelle's voice seemed supernaturally loud, as voices often do over the telephone when one fervently wishes otherwise.

"I can't come tonight," I declared desperately. "I have—I have company and can't get away."

"Company?" interrupted Estelle. "Well, you come over right now, company or no company!"

A rather lengthy conversation followed, Estelle insisting that I come over to Oakland at once and demanding to know who was with me. I was terribly embarrassed.

"It's a woman's voice," broke in mother. "Who is she?"

I placed my hand over the receiver, feeling like a man who had just reached the end of a pirate's plank in midocean.

"Oh, it's a queer character who thinks she can write and bothers the life out of me," I replied glibly, suddenly inspired with a complete and plausible fabrication.

Don't tell me the devil always forsakes his votaries.

ESTELLE HEARS A WOMAN'S VOICE

"I don't understand why they gave her my number at the office," I continued quickly. "They all know how she annoys me."

While I was saying this to mother Estelle was talking to me excitedly.

"I heard that woman's voice," she declared triumphantly. "So that's the lay. Well, you ....."

"That's the penalty for becoming prominent," continued mother, placidly. "It's always ....."

"You big four flusher!" shrieked Estelle. "I ....."

"A—and you are capable of rising to greater heights," mother was saying. "I'm so proud of . . ."

". . . you low down cur," continued Estelle's voice. "I knew . . ."

Cold perspiration had gathered on my forehead. I was getting beatitudes in one ear and brickbats in the other. I was completely bewildered, yet I knew I must keep my head.

"Listen Est——I mean Miss Carter," I ordered testily, using her last name because I was compelled to do so. "I don't propose——"

"Miss Carter!" mocked Estelle. "Well!—that—is—the—limit! That's getting the gate, all right. Say ——"

"Just a minute," I broke in angrily. "My mother is here, visiting me from the East. Surely you don't expect me to leave her to come after that manuscript of yours tonight. It——"

"My—my manuscript?" she interrupted, wonderingly. "I ain't got manuscript. Where do you get that st——. Oh, I get cher!" Her voice softened strangely in speaking the last four words. "Your mother, Donald, honest?"

$25,000 SUIT ENDS WAR ROMANCE

$1,000,000 Oil Suit Opens in Hub Federal Court

Mrs. Leah M. Gelineau, twenty-two-year-old war bride of Peabody inventor and central figure in a $25,000 suit for alleged alienation of affection in which Henry E. L'Heureaux, wealthy Salem provision dealer named as defendant.

VETERAN DEMANDS BIG SUM OF RICH 'RIVAL'

Salem, April 28.—A romance born of the war days was shattered down to the last tiny bits today when Joseph H. Gelineau, Pabody inventor and war veteran, began a $25,000 alienation-of-affection suit against Henry E. L'Heureux, wealthy Salem provision dealer.

Much sensational testimony is expected when the suit comes to trial, not the least sensational feature being a raid conducted by Gelineau and Special Officer Eben W. Sears, Jr., on Mrs. Leah Gelineau's Peabody home, in the wee hours of yesterday.

Mrs. Gelineau and L'Heureux were arraigned later in Peabody Court on a serious charge and each was fined $25.

The Gelineaus were married during the war, when Gelineau was a sergeant in the medical corps. Leah was but a young schoolgirl when she fell in love with the soldier, but she was an enthusiastic war worker.

When Sergeant Gelineau was transferred to a camp in California she followed him to the coast.

The husband is living with his parents in Lynn street, South Peabody, while his wife is still at their old home, No. 12 Tucker court, only a stone's throw away.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR DETROIT EX-OFFICIAL

Detroit, April 27.—Warrants for the arrest of Werner Helmbolm, former superintendent of motor transportation for the City of Detroit, will be asked today, Charles P. O'Neil, corporation counsel, announced.

The charge will be malfeasance in office. Two other warrants, Mr. O'Neil said would be asked for the arrest of George H. Garner, former head of the city's sidewalk division, and John J. Knight, former superintendent of streets and alley-cleaning on the same charges.

Wesleyan Won't "Keep Books on Students"

New Haven, Ct., April 27.—"Wesleyan intends to stop keeping books on the comings and goings of her human students," said Dr. James Lukens McConaughy, the new president.

"In the near future," he said, "all juniors and seniors who rank above the average will be told that they need not attend classes except when they believe it will be the most beneficial thing for them to do. It is ridiculous to treat men of proven ability and maturity as though they were children. The day is not far off when certain students will be told that if they can find fuller reference on portions of their course in the libraries, to go there and study for a week or so."

VOTE $160,000 TO BUY GEN. LAWRENCE ESTATE

A bill appropriating $160,000 for the purchase by the State of 250 acres, part of the estate of the late General Samuel C. Lawrence, Medford, was passed to be engrossed today by the House. Representative Henry L. Shattuck explained that the land is now used as a part of the Middlesex Fells reservation and if not purchased will be cut into house lots.

CHELSEA FIRM ALLEGES CONTRACT BREACH

Hearings on a suit for $1,000,000 began today in the United States District Court before Judge James M. Morton, with the Beacon Oil Company of Chelsea as plaintiff, arrayed against the powerful International Paper Company of New York.

The Chelsea concern declares that a contract with the International [illegible] to deliver 300,000 barrels of oil to paper mills at Rumford and Livermore Falls, Me., at a price of $1.19 a barrel, but that the paper company took only [illegible] barrels.

The International Paper Company set up in its defense the plea that it failed to accept delivery of the full amount because of strikes, disturbances and long periods of idleness, these being "causes over which it had no control."

The Beacon Oil Company declares it was forced to sell the unpurchased [illegible] barrels to other buyers at prices ranging from 80 cents to $1.19 a barrel.

Wedding Announced

Portland, Me., April 28.—Marriage of Harry M. Eaton and Albertina F. Alexander on October 29, has become known. They were wedded in Bethel and are now residing in this city.

Scofflaws! Try This New Test on John Laws

Birmingham, England, April 28.—Repetition of the words "British Constitution" has been dropped by the Birmingham police as a test of persons suspected of having imbibed too freely.

Instead, the suspects, blindfolded, are requested to step lively along a chalked line, pick up a hat at one end, and then bow four times to the captain in charge of the test.

BOUGHT A GUN AS DAUGHTER ELOPED

Brockton, April 28.—As a sequel to the elopement last week of his daughter Maria, Vincenzo Catrambone faced the Brockton court today charged with creating a disturbance, illegally possessing firearms while an alien, giving a false name when purchasing firearms and threatening the life of Mrs. Mary Cella, mother of his new son-in-law.

He pleaded guilty to the two charges dealing with firearms and not guilty to the others and was held in $2,500 bail for hearing Thursday.

According to evidence at the hearing Catrambone forbade the marriage of his 20-year-old daughter and Frank Cella after the two had been engaged for a year.

He learned yesterday that they had eloped to Boston last week and had been married there. Under the name of Tony Carlo he bought a pistol at a pawnshop and went to the Cella home.

Mrs. Mary Cella, mother of the bridegroom, swore out a warrant later charging that he had threatened to shoot her and two police officers overpowered and arrested Catrambone at his home here.

A brother, Pasquale Catrambone, is serving a life sentence in Charlestown State prison for the murder of a police officer here in 1919.

AUTO EXCISE TAX BILL IS KILLED IN HOUSE

Following a sharp debate, the House today killed the bill authorizing an excise tax no automobiles. Representative Joseph Martin of Marblehead declared that $80,000,00 worth of automobiles escaped taxation during 1924. The bill would have authorized local officials to tax automobiles of corporations and to collect a tax f $2 on machines registered after April 1.

CHARLESTOWN BOY HELD AS AUTO THIEF

Edward J. Kenniston, seventeen, of Lexington street, Charlestown, was brought back from Portsmouth, N. H., by Boston officers. He is wanted for the theft of an automobile, owned by Robert W. Moore of No. 97 Milk street, this city, last Saturday. The machine was taken from the rear of the Milk street address.

PICKS ALLEGED THUG BY HIS SHADOW

Thugs blackjacked George Martin of Quincy into unconsciousness on Copeland street, that city, early today and robbed him of $360.

A quarter of an hour later, when he had regained consciousness he noticed something familar in the silhouette in a lighted window at No. 22 Copeland street.

On the strength of his hunch, Patrolmen Curtin and Kantola entered the house and arrested two men. Martin identified them, and despite their protestations fo innocence, they were arrested charged with highway robbery.

At the police station they said they were Victor Jokinen and Victor Maki, both of Worcester. A large sum of money was found on them. Martin said it was his. Martin lives at No. 107 Verchild street, Quincy.

PERCY A. BLAISDELL OF EVERETT DEAD

Percy A. Blaisdell, forty-one, for many years inspector of wires for the city of Everett, was found dead today in his home, No. 108 Linden street, Everett, by his mother, Mrs. Hannah Blaisdell. Death was due to heart failure. He had been ill for months, having suffered first from sleeping sickness and later from typhoid, but had returned to work only yesterday. He was a native of Rutland, Vt., and a member of Palestine Lodge of Masons. Besides his mother, he leaves one sister.

FAVOR TAXING INCOMES ON NON-TAXABLE STOCKS

The House today accepted the Meins amendment to the national tax bill providing for the taxation of income from non-taxable securities and passed the measure to a third reading. A point of order was raised by Representative John E. Beck on the Shattuck amendment increasing the tax from 2½ to 3 per cent. on corporations. Beck held that this amendment was beyond the scope of the petition and Speaker John C. Hull ruled the point well taken.

Baby Longworth Won't Be U. S. President

Rockville, Md., April 28 (Universal Service).—Pauline Longworth will never be President. Her daddy said so today. Representative Nicholas Longworth, attending a State meeting of the federation of Republican women, declared Pauline would not have the job.

"She will be a politician though," he said. "Maybe we will make her a congresswoman, but President? No!"

Pauline is a granddaughter of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

GOLD STANDARD RESTORED IN BRITAIN

Bank of England Is Given Special License to Export Bullion; Sterling Takes Jump

New York, April 28.—Exchange demand sterling advanced one cent to $4.82, the highest price in ten years, and less than 4 cents from parity, within fifteen minutes after the news of Great Britain's return to the gold standard had been received in New York.

London, April 28 (A.P.).—The gold standard in England will be restored dating from today, by a special license to the Bank of England to export gold bullion, it was announced by Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in his budget speech in Commons this afternoon.

The bank's special license operates pending the formal lapsing on December next of the 1920 act prohibiting the export of gold bullion.

Churchill characterized the yield from internal revenue as satisfactory. Excess profits and corporation profit taxes showed a deficit of 9,000,000 pounds sterling, but these were moribund taxes and were more than counterbalanced by the yield from income tax, super and death taxes.

DUTY UPON LUXURIES.

The reimposition of the McKenna duties upon imported luxuries is proposed.

The consuming power of the British people has been maintained, declared Churchill. He said he realized that the surplus of the late chancellor's estimate corresponded with remarkable accuracy to the budget's revenue from spirits. Tobacco had fallen 2,000,000 pounds sterling below the last budget estimate, but on the other hand beer had advanced by a million sterling.

Arrangements to obtain credits in the United States for not less than $300,000,000, with possible expansion, are being made. These, Churchill said, would only be used if and when required, and he did not expect that it would be necessary to use them.

NEW ISSUE OF BANK NOTES.

With regard to the re-establishment of the gold standard, Churchill said he would introduce a measure porviding for internal treasury notes as well as Bank of England notes, which would be convertible into coin but only at the option of the Bank of England.

Simultaneously with these provisions, he said, the Bank of England would be obligated to sell gold bullion in amounts not less than 400 fine ounces in exchange for legal tender at a fixed price of 3 pounds 17 shillings 10½ pence per standard ounce.

DORCHESTER CHILD AGAIN ATTACKED

Dorchester police are confronted with a new mystery when it was reported that Olive Parlin, recent victim of an outrage, was attacked by elderly man.

GORDON PARLIN

POLICE ON TRAIL OF ELDERLY ASSAILANT

Police of the Fields Corner station, Dorchester, are continuing their investigation of the attack upon eight-year-old Olive Parlin, of No. 1845 Dorchester avenue, by a man described to be about forty years old.

Olive, less than a week ago, is alleged to have been attacked by fifteen-year-old Thomas C. Drysdale, boy "brander" suspect of Dorchester.

The Drysdale boy's case was continued in Dorchester court until May 5 next.

The second attack took place in a field in the vicinity of the Ashmont railroad station, near Codman street, where Olive and three other children had gone to pick some flowers. According to the story told the police by the children, the man approached Olive and started to choke her.

Frightened by the attack upon her playmate, Alice Neilson, seven years old, screamed and her cries attracted the attention of a passing motorist who stopped to investigate. His presence frightened the man, who disappeared.

STOP SALE OF HARVARD ADVOCATE

lead and word was received from Washington that the postal authorities were examining the current number to determine whether it was mailable.

Judge Duff bitterly denounced the editors and circulators of The Advocate in a conference with Sergeant Thomas Kavanagh, who represented Superintendent Crowley.

"Absolutely revolting," was one of his mildest expressions.

"The pictures and language are ideally adapted to corrupt morals," he declared. "Any time your superintendent wants to ask for warrants for persons selling this number I shall be glad to issue them."

Judge Duff said the Advocate transgressed the bounds of decency far more flagrantly than the Harvard Lampoon, which was recently suppressed, but without prosecution.

The number under discussion is known as "The Dial Uumber." It is a parody on the sedate and solemn "Dial" magazine, with its appeal to high-brows.

"Neo-Platonic Love" is a decidely revealing picture on what would be the first literary page inside the frontpiece if the magazine pages were numbered with each issue. As it is, the page is No. 304.

Throughout the magazine are scattered poems and quips to which Judge Duff took bitter exception.

One of them is called, quite appropriately, "A Plain Poem." It is all of that. It is written in a sort of free verse, which makes the jazzy context more startling still.

In another poem, entitled "Portrait of an Ex-Lady," out-and-out profanity occurs at least once.

Noted Racing Man Dies

New York, April 28.—August Belmont & Co., today announced the receipt of a cablegram announcing the death in Monte Carlo of Samuel S. Howland, racing man and sportsman, and brother-in-law of the late Major August Belmont. Frederica Belmont was Mr. Howland's first wife. She died and he later married Miss L. M. Wallace, his present wife.

SOMERVILLE DEMOCRATS HEAR WALSH

Former United States Senator David I. Walsh, who carried Somerville at the last State election, the first time in the history of the city that a Democratic candidate led a Republican candidate, will be the chief speaker tonight at the annual get-together of the Democrats of Somerville in Knights of Columbus Hall, Highland avenue and Central street, Somerville. An enthusiastic reception is planned by the Democrats to welcome former Senator Walsh.

David I. Walsh.

Other speakers will be Mayor James M. Curley, former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, William J. Shanahan and John J. Murphy, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor of Somerville. Arthur D. Healey, chairman of the Somerville Democratic city committee and chairman of the speakers' committee, will be the toastmaster at the banquet.

The affair is to be the annual get-together and entertainment by singing and dancing will divide the time with speakers of national, State and city prominence.

At last year's banquet 1,100 were present, and it is expected that this year's afair will surpass that of 1924. The banquet will be served at 7 o'clock.

An orchestra will furnish music and Michael J. Tierney, chairman of the entertainment committee, will have on hand a number of excellent entertainers.

Robert W. Houley is chairman of the banquet committee, Arthur D. Healey of the speakers' committee, Miss Mary A. Cleary of the reception committee, Miss Margaret Duggan of the committee on tickets, Ernest C. Carr of the publicity committee and Arthur Walsh of the catering committee.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE AT HARVARD

Dr. David Philipson Calls Meeting on College Welfare and Religious Work

In the interests of the Commission on Jewish Education, Dr. David Philipson has called a national conference on welfare and religious work at colleges and universities which will be held at Harvard University tonight.

This commission represents the Boston Chapter of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. Ten national organizations will be represented by forty-five delegates. Dr. Philipson invited delegates from the Central Conference of American Rabbis, National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, United Synagogue, Young People's League of the United Synagogue, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, Intercollegiate Menorah Society and the Jewish Chautauqua Society.

Jewish education will be the subject of discussion.

At the annual tea of the Boston chapters of the Child Study Association, Mrs. Cecile Pilpel, director of the study groups of New York city, presided and was also the guest of honor and the speaker. Mrs. Jean Cuast, presented the paper on "Initiative and Spontaneity," in which she mentioned interesting facts relating to the upbringing of a child. She said:

"Allow the child full play in order that his creative ability may be fostered and developed. Give him full scope to work out his own individuality and express his own tendencies, likes and dislikes. Let him have the freedom of his own mind. Guide him but let him work out his own salvation."

Mrs. Pilpel stressed the over-indulgence of parents with their offspring.

"We are so afraid lest they die," she said, "that we are afraid to let them live. Keep the wondering spirit alive in the child. Don't come down with positive attitudes. Approach him with the open-road attitude and make him believe that there is always more to be learned about everything.

"Don't make a policeman out of God. By so doing you lower the conception of God for the child and turn him away from the spiritual conception.

"We mothers talk too much. We don't think fast enough and the mouth is ever-ready and we use it. Have as little occasion as possible to need to say 'don't touch this,' or 'don't do that.' If you give the child too many don'ts you create in him a spirit of rebellion.

"Never have a door closed to the child. It seems these days that the home of today is so regulated that there is very little or rather no place for the two-year-old. It is a deplorable state of affairs. In the old type of home where there was much activity and many children there was always something doing. They didn't have to scratch the table and parlor furniture; there were enough children, so they scratched themselves.

"The modern nursery school is a blessing. It is a new way of using educational opportunities instead of frantically clinging to something that is already gone. We haven't the old type of home for our children so the nursery school has come to substitute for it and it is a wonderful substitute indeed. When our home today is suitable for children it is not suitable for us."

The Child Study groups of Roxbury, Dorchester and Brookline have as their leader Mrs. Aaron Hailpern. Mothers are urged to join whichever group is most convenient for them.

In charge of the tea were Mrs. Lewis Goldberg, chairman; Mrs. S. Sutker and Mrs. Jack Gordon. Mrs. Sophie Loman Goldman played several piano selections.

The New England Junior Hadassah Regional conference will be held in this city on May 12.

* * *

The Senior Hadassah held a tea at the home of Mrs. David A. Lourie, Schuyler street, Roxbury, in honor of Mrs. David Yellin, wife of the vice-mayor of Jerusalem. The executive board held its meeting also.

BULGAR BOMB THROWER KILLS ONE, WOUNDS ONE

London, April 28 (I.N.S.).—The secretary to the mayor of Boyans, a suburb of Sofia, was killed and another person was wounded when the mayor and his secretary attempted to arrest a suspicious appearing character today, according to agency dispatches from Sofia.

The assailant escaped, leaving behind a bomb which he had concealed in a bag.

CHINESE BANDITS BURN 100 CAPTIVES IN CAVE

London, April 28 (I.N.S.).—Bandits attacked the town of Su-Ling Chung, China, captured 100 inhabitants, drove them into a cave and then heaped fire wood in the cave and lighted it, burning to death most of the prisoners and killing with stones those who tried to escape, according to a Central News Dispatch today from Tientsin.

FIRE ROUTS HOLY CROSS STUDENTS AT LECTURE

Worcester, April 28.—Student inmates of Fenwick Hall at Holy Cross College, to the number of several hundred, were driven out when fire was discovered burning through the floor of one of the rooms in the O'Kane building.

The students fought the blaze with bucket brigades, and it was extinguished when the fire department arrived. A cigarette is believed to have caused the fire, which caused damage estimated at $200.

BRITISH INDIAN AID ASSURED ROOSEVELTS

Simla, India, April 28 (AP)—The Indian government has completed arrangements to assist Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt on their expedition into Central Asia, it was announced today. The party is expected to reach Bombay about May 8, coming from Marseilles. The route will be via the Leh Pass, gateway to the Pamirs. It is understood that after the party reaches Kashgar, Eastern Turkestan, its activities will be under Chinese jurisdiction.

"DAPPER DON" MUST FACE CONSPIRACY TRIAL

New York, April 28.—"Dapper Don" Collins has been ordered taken to Atlantic City to stand trial on a charge of conspiracy to smuggle liquor. He was denied bail.

Judge Thacher ordered him removed to the Southern New Jersey district to stand trial for conspiracy in connection with the operations of the Nomad, former sub-chaser, and the schooner, Pocomoke, in 1921 and 1922, when boats loaded with alleged liquor from the West Indies were abandoned off the New Jersey Coast.

Collins was brought back from France a year ago to stand trial in connection with the shooting of John N. Reid, silk manufacturer. Department of Justice agents arrested him March 13 on the liquor conspiracy charges.

What Papers Do You Read?

The Shepard Stores have much to tell you day after day. It is one of the important phases of our business that these messages reach you in the most direct way. After big things happen sometimes patrons complain that they did not know about them. It is our intention, of course, that they should–but we need your help.

We have purposely prepared this collection of Shepard Values with the idea of making it possible for you to tell us how best we can keep in touch with you and others interested in what we do. If it is convenient to you we will appreciate it tremendously, if, when making your purchase, you hand the sales person the coupon clipped from your favorite paper.

We believe that the values offered here will repay you for this added bit of co-operation on your part.

You will find all these articles on sale beginning Wednesday. Mail Orders will be promptly filled by Barbara West. It is not necessary that you present a coupon–we simply ask that you do so for the betterment of our Service. Thank You.

LAST MONDAY CONCERT AT SYMPHONY

Brilliant Program Marks End of Special Subscription Series

Last night saw the close of the Monday night series of Symphony concerts. This series consists of five concerts distributed through the season. Its main purpose is to appeal to those who are unable to attend one of the series of twenty-four Friday afternoon concerts or Saturday evening concerts, or to persons new to Symphonic music and wishing to make the experiment.

This year's Monday night audience was unusually fortunate in being able to listen to one of the greatest orchestras under the leadership of a conductor of international fame, Serge Koussevitzky. That is appreciated its opportunity was witnessed by the fact that the subscriptions to the series were sold out this year for the first time.

Last night's concert was probably the most brilliant of the five. Mieczyslaw Munz was the soloist in Franck's "Symphonic Variations for Piano and Orchestra." He has a fine tone which was very much in evidence during the course of the Variations. The number was very well played by the orchestra, too.

The opening number was the Vivaldi D minor Concerto edited by A. Siloti, previously heard here. Mr. Koussevitzky gave an admirable rendition. The only other number was the Tchaikovsky Fifth Symphony, which is one of Mr. Koussevitzky's war horses. Last night was the third time this writer heard Mr. Koussevitzky's rendition of the Symphony this year, but such is the power and beauty that he gets out of it, and such is the power and beauty inherent in the piece itself, that another hearing would still enthrall.

WIFE, 22, KILLS HER HUSBAND, SURRENDERS

Paterson, N. J., April 28.—Mabel Sage, twenty-two years old, walked into police headquarters here after midnight and announced to Lieutenant Close:

"I have just killed my husband."

The woman, with Samuel Campelmo, was proprietor of a roadhouse at Little Falls. She explained that Campelmo, to whom she said she was married, had endeavored to compel her to lead an unlawful life. He was choking her, she said, when her brother entered the room.

Her brother was getting the worst of it, the young woman said, when she shot Campelmo four or five times through the heart.

Wanderlust Grips More Hub Society Folk

(Photo by Bachrach.)

Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr., with Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr., and Mrs. Samuel Eliot, is guiding next Friday's cabaret and fashion show for the Infants' Hospital to a successful end, both socially and financially. Some eight hundred invitations have gone out to the cabaret, which is always a merry windup of the season.

Boston Has Distinguished Coterie Aboard "Paris" on Way to Europe

Betty Alden

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES in smart world ranks continue to hold an absorbing interest. Whether society is on the wing at the present moment or simply contemplating later travels, the answer to the wanderlust of Spring is quite apparent.

BOSTON'S COTERIE aboard the steamship "Paris" now on the high seas include Mrs. Richard Saltonstall of Deerfield street, and little Mary Saltonstall. Also the Philip Y. DeNormandies, with their daughter, Miss Theresa DeNormandie of Milton.

MRS. JOSHUA MONTGOMERY SEARS, of Arlington street, is going over on one of her frequent trips, and, also of the haute monde, there are those two Boston notables, Mrs. Bryce J. Allan of Beacon street and "Allanbank" at the North Shore, and her sister, Mrs. Guy Norman.

THE STEAMER also is carrying the Hon. George H. Lyman and Mrs. Lyman, of Commonwealth avenue, and Mrs. George Peabody Gardner, Jr., of "Green Hill," Warren street, Brookline.

OUT-OF-TOWN SMARTDOM is represented by Mr. and Mrs. G. Maurice Congdon from Providence. Mrs. Congdon (Caroline Grosvenor) of "Lindenhurst," Bristol, Rhode Island, and Mrs. Gardner (Rose Grosvenor) are sisters.

MRS. RICHARD C. CURTIS was Anita Grosvenor, the third of the Grosvenor trio of daughters, and Theodore P. Grosvenor, of Boston and Providence, who married Miss Anita Strawbridge, daughter of the Robert Strawbridges of Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, is a brother.

THE DE NORMANDIES will be in Paris for the major portion of their stay abroad, and are returning this way in mid-June. Mrs. Sears is to travel on the Continent and plans to come Bostonward some time in July.

YOUNG MRS "DICK" SALTONSTALL (Mary Rogers), with her small daughter, Mary, is to be on the other side for practically the greater part of the Summer.

FOR THE QUOTA of Society that would a-traveling go, there is a like faction whose multitude of philanthropic interests bids them tarry a while in town until successful financial goals are reached.

I REFER particularly to the May Day Sale of rummage for Denison House, at Horticultural Hall, to the concert in Symphony Hall on Saturday evening for Bryn Mawr and the Rose Day Sale for the Army and Navy Club in Park Square, also on Saturday.

THE INDEFATIGABLE Guy Murchie is at the helm for the Rose sale for the service club, with scores of workers enrolled in one capacity or another. Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman and Mrs. William S. Lathrop help serve a mid-day lunch and are lending their motors.

MRS. GERALD A. BRAMWELL also lends her motor, and for the third successive year Colonel T. C. Dixon of the Watertown Arsenal is sending his car to aid in the good work.

THAT DEVOTED WORKER for the club, Miss Eugenie Gardiner, whose interest in its welfare has extended through many years, with Mrs. William Gardiner, Mrs. Pennington Gardiner and others, are supplying the midday luncheon for the workers.

MAJOR ROSS. T. WHISTLER, William H. Mayo and Terry B. Gordon are treasurers for the Rose Day drive and Mrs. Emily Felbelman is arranging the districts and appointing the captains for the appeal.

ANENT THE rummage sale, Mrs. Harold C. Stuart reports such a richness of rummage has been donated that Horticultural Hall will be piled high with articles of a variety never before beheld, which of course means a record-breaking sum of money for Denison House.

THE PARTICULAR need just now is for Mrs. Albert Cross' table. She is begging people to send cakes, cookies, candy and flowers. Already much is promised so that a tempting array may be spread out.

SHE IS TO SERVE hot waffles with maple syrup, delicious additions to a menu already including the omnipresent and stable sandwich with hot coffee. Nearby Mrs. John Shayeb has a table of Syrian sweets, accompanied by coffee prepared in the Turkish fashion.

IT'S quite appropriate that a Denison House rummage sale should have a Syrian table, for Denison House, out Tyler street way, is right in the centre of Boston's picturesque Chinese and Syrian districts.

THE dark-eyed children of the quarter have a happy rendezvous at Denison House. The financial way of the settlement is greatly eased by the annual sale, and Mrs. Stuart, Mrs. John Hoar, Mrs. Charles A. Morss, Mrs. Robert Belknap and the others have high hopes for the May Day outcome.

HOPE FOR RADIO PHONE BY DAY TO EUROPE

New York, April 28 (I.N.S.)—Telephone communication by radio between the United States and Europe will be a commercial possibility as soon as engineers overcome the deadening effect of the sun upon voice waves broadcast across the Atlantic, according to officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company today.

Telephone conversations with England have been carried on for two years at night, but every attempt during daylight has failed.

Engineers are carrying on experiments daily, it was stated, to send the same messages during the day as have been sent at night, and as soon as this is accomplished it will be possible for any subscriber here to pick up his receiver and be connected with Europe.

Marion Davies in "Zander The Great"

Marion Davies' Greatest Role

Marion Davies has played many great parts in her career as a motion picture star—such roles as Mary Tudor in "When Knighthood Was in Flower", "Pat" O'Day in "Little Old New York" and Janice Meredith in "Janice Meredith". But Mamie in "Zander the Great" is the greatest.

Because Mamie gives her the greatest opportunity she has ever had to display her gift for comedy. Mamie is not all comedy, however. She is at times, a poignant, dramatic figure.

Mamie, in a word, is a most unusual character confronted by the most unusual situations. She will linger in your memory.

A FEELING OF SECURITY

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything.

It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

GYPSIES IN WAR AS PRINCESS IS SOLD AGAIN

Police Guard Tribes Gathered on Lynn-Salem Line to Decide Girl's Fate

A nation-wide war is brewing among the gypsy tribes over fifteen-year-old Princess Annie Butch of Salem.

Twice, within a year, the hand of this young Gypsy Princess has been sold by her father, the chief of the tribe, and the Gypsy world in America has been split asunder.

Dusky hosts are gathering at Thomas Farm on the Marlboro road near the Lynn-Salem line and trouble is feared. The Lynn and Salem police are both keeping an eye on the situation which the fifteen-year-old Princess has innocently brought about.

There are Gypsy tribes who side with the father of the little Princess—who maintains he is within his rights in twice selling his daughter.

BITTER OPPOSITION.

There are other tribes that are equally bitter in their opposition, and as the tribes foregather, all the leaders agree that trouble portends.

A year ago, when the Princess was only fourteen, her father, Chief Butch, sold her for $2,500 to Crown Prince John Stokes of the Stokes tribe of Gypsies of Pelham, N. Y. The little bride went with her royal husband, but after a few months' time she tired of the life on the road and pined again for her own home.

The child pleaded with her father, who finally intervened in his daughter's behalf. There was a fight, and Chief Butch was attacked by a member of the Stokes tribe.

AGAIN SOLD GIRL.

Now it has become known that the father again has sold his daughter to Joe Miller, age 18, the purchase price this time being advanced to $3,000.

There are other complications, however, that make the situation more grave. At the time the second sale of the Princess was consummated, the prospective bridegroom's father, S. Miller, was chief of the Johnson tribe. Since that time, however, Miller has been deposed by the tribe, Pedro Johns being elected as the new chief.

Then a week ago, the charter of the Johnson tribe mysteriously disappeared in Boston. Without its charter the tribe has no standing in the gypsy world. These complications have brought about a situation that the tribes now gathered at Thomas Farm will endeavor to settle.

MOTHER AND BOY NAB SUSPECT

FILM OF SINKING OF RAIFUKU SHOWN

Overcoming what appeared to be insurmountable obstacles, motion pictures of the sinking of the Japanese steamship Raifuku Maru, with the loss of her entire crew, were obtained exclusively by International Newsreel and are being shown today in theatres throughout the country. The pictures are among the most remarkable ever made, and the manner in which it was possible to give them to the public is interesting.

Among the passengers on the White Star liner Homeric, which answered the S O S call of the Raifuku, was J. M. Beatty, of the Federal Glass Co., Columbus, O. Mr. Beatty, who is an amateur photographer, had with him a motion picture camera, and started it in motion as soon as the Homeric came close to the sinking Japanese ship.

A wireless to the Homeric by International Newsreel revealed the fact that Beatty had taken the pictures, and before the ship arrived in New York, an option had been secured on them. But when the Homeric docked, it was found that Beatty had used a "baby" camera.

In order to transfer the pictures to standard stock, it would be necessary to have the work done in the Eastman Laboratory in Rochester, N. Y. The release time of the Newsreel was only a few hours off, the film was in New York and the Eastman plant in Rochester. Within half an hour, S. H. McKean, news editor of the International, was in an airplane, en route for the northern city. The flight was made in four hours. The Eastman Co. completed the work by midnight. McKean left Rochester at 12:57, arriving in New York at 9 a. m. A few hours later prints of the picture were distributed to New York theatres and sent throughout the country.

FIX $10,000 BAIL FOR FAMILY'S CAPTIVE

Caught through the courage of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Janes and their twenty-one-year-old son, Vincent, after they had discovered two men ransacking their home at No. 88 Prince street, Jamaica Plain, a man known as James Devine, of the South End, appeared in Roxbury Court today and was held in $10,000 bail for the Grand Jury. Devine, the police say, admitted his name is Richard J. McCarthy.

The second man eluded the determined pursuit of the spirited Janes family and got away.

Leaving their home to deliver a package for the Near East Relief, they returned to find the front door open. Mrs. Janes entered alone while her husband and son were putting the car away. In the dark hall a man brushed by her. Another jumped out of a pantry window.

Instead of fainting, she gave chase. Her son followed, while Mr. Janes first tried to capture the fellow who went out by the window, and then called the police.

At Pond street, finding the fugitive was distancing her, Mrs. Janes appealed to an autoist. At the same instant her son raced by her, overtook Devine, wrestled him to the sidewalk, and sat on his chest until the police arrived.

His scuffle with Devine was so realistic that he injured his hand, and was treated at the City Hospital.

The Janeses say silverware was packed up ready for removal and that jewelry was missing. It is alleged Devine was found in possession of jewelry.

Doris Suttis, nineteen years old, was arrested today in the room of Devine, in Appleton street. The girl, who came here from Nova Scotia several months ago, was taken to the Central Municipal Court where she was ordered held pending action of the immigration authorities.

INDIAN DANCER BARES LIFE IN HAREM

Girl Weeps as She Identifies Garments Her Protector Wore When Slain

Bombay, April 28 (A.P.).—Mumtaz Begum, Indian dancing girl and former favorite of the Maharaja of Indore, broke into tears today when called upon to identify bloodstained bits of clothing that belonged to Abdul Kadir Baula, rich Mohammedan merchant, who was killed at Malabar Hill, near Bombay, on January 12.

Nine men accused of the murder of the merchant, who was the Nautch girl's protector after her escape from the Maharaja's household, pleaded not guilty yesterday when their trial began in the Bombay High Court before a special jury.

During her testimony today Mumtaz told the detailed story of her life with the Maharaja of Indore, in whose household she spent ten years as a dancing girl. During that time she was not allowed to leave Indore without the Maharaja, and when their baby was born her relatives were not allowed to see her.

The later years she spent at Indore before escaping to her last protector, she declared, were years of ill-treatment, during which she was not able to eat or dress as she liked. She virtually was held a prisoner in the Maharaja's palace, she avowed.

Cold Wave Sweeps Italy

Rome, April 28.—A cold wave has swept the entire Italian peninsula the last two days. Snow fell in the northern sections, in some places to a depth of six inches. The temperature was below freezing at many places, causing great damage to fruit.

DRIVER FLEES AS CAR KILLS AUTOIST

Truck Loaded With Vegetables Crashes Into Coupe on Connecticut Highway

Milford, Ct., April 28.—J. Charles Sniffen, 53, of Westport, was instantly killed today on the New Haven turnpike at Orange when his small coupe collided head-on with a truck of the Blumenthal Kosher Company of No. 53 Harrison street, New York.

At the outset, the truck, loaded with vegetables for New Haven, was turned crosswise, while Sniffen's car was whirled completely around.

Sniffen, thrown beneath his own car, was later found by a passing motorist. S. Brown, driver of the truck, who could not be found, was said to have returned to New York.

Prominent in the business and social life of Westport, Sniffen was a director of the Westport Y. M. C. A. and a member of the Westport Country Club. He was chairman of the Republican town committee. His wife left for California three days ago.

BALDWIN SEES NO SIGN OF NEW ARMS PARLEY

London, April 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, replying to a question in the House of Commons today regarding the possible summoning of another disarmament conference, avowed that he did not see any sign of an early call of such a conference from any quarter.

CORNS Lift Right Off With Fingers

No pain at all! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN
VOICING THE GREAT DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

At 10:40 tomorrow morning the WNAC-Boston American Women's Club will hear a Forestry Talk and then Martha Lee will tell you how to get thin, and Jean Sargent will talk about Frocks for Summer.

LISTENING IN TONIGHT

The novelty of this evening's radio entertainment is a radio wedding, broadcasted by WNAC from the Home Beautiful Exposition at 8:00 p. m., when the Rev. W. E. Blake of Chelsea will unite before an audience of hundreds of thousands, Sarah Monk of Chelsea and Robert Waugh of Revere. All the musical program before the bride appears will be broadcast, with the wedding march and all. There are few things in the world that interest people, young and old, as a wedding does. This a new kind of wedding—a Radio Wedding. The fans will wish good luck to the happy pair, with a life time of good clear reception and no static.

The Boston Evening American Orchestra comes in tonight with a splendid program and its many friends will be on hand to welcome the weekly appearance of this popular feature. Mr. Dodge has a selection that will give pleasure to everyone. There is jazz and there is classical music, there is a violin solo and some well-loved songs. It's a program that will add to the enthusiasm with which this orchestra is greeted by its many friends.

The outstanding feature on WEEI's program direct from New York on the general tie-up through WEAF Tuesday evening will be a one act comedy playlet featuring Patsy Pendleton and George Blackwood of the Institute Players.

This playlet is to be given from 10 to 10:30, and is called "The Constant Lover," written by St. George Hankin.

George Blackwood played his first part in "Aphrodite" at the Century Theatre, and following this was with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cobwin in the "Yellow Jacket." He was later with Ethel and John Barrymore in "Clair de Lune", with Vivian Martin in "The Wild Westcotts," and a season with Stuart Walker's Repertory Company.

Mr. Blackwood has also been very successful in the moving picture field and recently finished playing Hermes in "The Gorgan's Head." He has been leading man for the Institute Players at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, during the season.

Listeners will have another opportunity of checking up their errors in the recent music memory contest when the Brunswick hour of music goes on the air at 9 o'clock tonight over WBZ. The names of the artists and titles of the selections being broadcast will be announced. These concerts are looked forward to by a vast radio audience and only leading concert and operatic stars are scheduled on the Brunswick hour of music program. Other attractions to be presented during the evening include Leo Reisman's ensemble, and Violet Gridley, soprano, accompanied by Don Ramsay.

Plump, meaty green olives give flavor to SALADS

NEXT time you make a salad, mix some plump slices of green olives into it. That tangy flavor blends right in. It gives an individuality to salads, a tantalizing sort of flavor that forms a quick friendship with hunger. Our free folder tells of many unique ways to serve green olives. Write for a copy.

Every Mother Should Read This!

Mrs. Alexander Bradley of Danbury, Conn., says: "After 14 long years trying different remedies I have at last found a good medicine.

Dr. True's Elixir

I was nearly discouraged. I was giving my oldest girl something nearly every night, but now I keep a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir handy, and only give it occasionally. I have tried so many things, but now as soon as I see signs of worms I give Dr. True's Elixir,

The True Family Laxative and worm expeller for quick relief." Made of strictly pure-quality herbs. Family size $1.20; other sizes 60c and 40c.

SOME RAISIN RECIPES.

THIS is raisin week and on every side we are reminded of the real value of raisins either in cooking or as a confection. Some of us just eat raisins because we enjoy their fine flavor, but not all of us realize that in these California sun cured grapes is stored rich nutriment, mainly in the form of fruit sugars. These fruit sugars supply the normal craving for sweets in an easily digested form. They furnish energy, too, so raisins hold a very important place in the diet of active growing children.

Besides their health giving qualities, raisins are appetizing and inexpensive; they offer just that touch of the unusual to redeem the commonplace foods. Every mother of a growing family knows that monotony dulls the appetite and it is often necessary to present the necessary everyday dishes in a new form to make them tempting. Rice and milk becomes tiresome, but add a few raisins and the dish takes on a new appeal.

With a package of raisins as part of the pantry's staple supplies—a fruity, creamy pudding can be made in five minutes from the left-over boiled rice from last night's dinner.

Even the old-fashioned bread pudding will be an entirely new dessert with raisins and various other combinations of flavoring.

RECIPE NO. 1148.

CALIFORNIA APPLE PIE.

The filling for this pie can be used for several different desserts. Baked in custard cups without a crust it is especially good for children; made into a cobbler without an under crust, but with a pastry covered top; baked as individual deep dish pies, no under crust and pastry top; or the pie with under crust and lattice top, which may be served hot or cold. If hot, serve with hard sauce. Take 2 cups of grated apple (can be run through the food chopper), add grated rind and juice of ½ lemon, 1 cup sugar, 2 beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons melted butter and 1 cup seeded raisins. Turn into pastry lined pie dish. Cover top with strips of pastry lattice fashion and finish with a strip of pastry around the edge. Place in a hot oven, reducing heat after 15 minutes; bake until firm in the centre.

RECIPE NO. 1150.

RAISIN POUND CAKE.

Beat 5 eggs, without separating, until very light. Measure 2 cupfuls of flour and sift again with ½ teaspoon of baking powder. Cream 1 cupful of butter; gradually add 1 cupful of sugar. Beat mixture until very creamy; add about 1 cupful of flour, mix well, then add a portion of the beaten egg, mix well, then continue adding flour and eggs alternately, beating well between each addition of ingredients. When batter has been beaten until smooth, add 1 cupful raisins with 2 tbsps. of flour and add to cake batter. Pour into a buttered paper lined pan and bake in a moderate oven about 50 minutes. Serve without icing.

B. C. AND HOLY CROSS IN DEBATE BY RADIO

Great interest has been evidenced by the various colleges in the radio debate which will take place tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. from Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores and Station WEAN, The Shepard Stores, Providence, between the Boston College and the Holy Cross debating teams.

Boston College will use the facilities of Station WNAC, while Holy Cross will be at WEAN.

SUPERPOWER MAY BE TESTED DURING SUMMER

With the approaching Summer static season, fans will have an opportunity to get first hand knowledge of the real value of "superpower." Several of the 5000 watt stations which have been using only a fractional part of their full power may cut loose at anytime now.

LOCKPORT PROGRAM LOUD, BUT VERY RAGGED

The Listener says that he picked up a station he has not heard for some time. This was WMAK of Lockport, New York. His program was loud enough, but the quality was very ragged. This may have been on account of interference from one of the other short wave stations as they are all very close together down below 288 metres.

LAST NIGHT

Last night was a good one for those who were lucky enough to be listening in. Receiving conditions were very good, and all programs which were available were first class. From WNAC there was a very fine entertainment presented by the Guild of St. Apollonia, a charitable organization maintained for the purpose of giving free dental treatment to children in the parochial schools. An interesting talk was given by Dr. Giblin, president of the organization, and several numbers were furnished by the Copley String Quartet and various vocal artists.

WEEI hit the ball with two fine programs from the New York studio. The nine o'clock presentation was by the Gypsie String Ensemble, and they played not only well, but very abundantly. Such popular pieces as Delibes' "Intermezzo" and Kreisler's "Apple Blossoms" were among the selections. This program was followed by one of a vocal nature, consisting of a very fine male quartet.

KDKA was again available with exception volume. Their main event last night was the broadcast of the Grant Day dinner from he Americus Club of Pittsburgh. Among the speakers I listened to was Commander Zachary Lansdowne, U. S. N., of the U. S. S. Shenandoah. Commander Lansdowne told some interesting things about these big dirigibles, and his voice was just as clear as though coming from a local station. A peculiar thing about KDKA was that he was much louder than WBZ in my locality. WBZ was broadcasting a concert by the Old First Church Orchestra, and it sounded like a distant station.

Each bite seems better than the one before!

ALLURING FLAVOR — the kind that makes you sorry when the last bite's gone —

Is that what you like best about a ripe banana? Or do you like ripe bananas most because they satisfy that between-meals empty feeling?

Mothers like to give their children ripe bananas. They furnish in a delicious and digestible form the energy that husky, hard-playing boys and girls need.

Bananas may be served for breakfast, lunch or dinner—with cereals, in salads, and in wholesome fruit desserts.

You can get bananas the country over, the year round.

Once you taste a really ripe banana, you'll realize that the improvement in flavor makes careful selection worth while.

Many people like to buy bananas a dozen at a time. They let them ripen at home and eat them just when they are sweetest and creamiest.

'BADGES' FULL OF BRIGHT COMEDY

Gregory Kelly Scores in Role of Boy Detective at the Plymouth

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THERE were moments in the Marcin-Hammond mystery play, "Badges," at the Plymouth last night, when the trend of things moved serenely and surely out of comedy into farce; when even the crooks and their sins were more to be laughed at than scorned. In any event those who prefer crime to polite social conventions in their drama will find "Badges" something to be taken with a broad smile as well as a thumping pulse.

Serving the interesting purpose of bringing together Madge Kennedy and Gregory Kelly it is easy to imagine that youth beamed beautifully through a stirring evening. Honors were about even. Miss Kennedy caught you with an enduring charm of personality that makes theatre-going worth while, and Mr. Kelly coaxed you first into titters of delight and then into almost riotous laughter. He convinced you that a boy detective, who is a fully developed adolescent boob, is a good thing for any crime play that hopes to thrive through comedy relief. Mr. Kelly certainly conducted an exhilarating expedition into mystery and bright red drama, with every turn and situation enlivened by such devices as you might expect from a correspondence school investigator.

Crooks and policemen, a little love interest, weird happenings and some plain, old-fashioned melo-drama, with exploding pistols, hard words and harder deeds, were strewn through "Badges" with a lavish hand.

Feuds and counter feuds, a haunted house with black cats leaping from chimneys and secret panels made it plain that none of the well-known tricks of the mystery drama was to be omitted. And through it all, confusing and confounding both sinners and the saintly, Mr. Kelly stalked blunderingly — amusingly — and finally turned you out of the theatre with aching sides and a greater faith in the untamed assurance of youth.

In supporting roles Paul Harvey, Pauline Armitage and Corlis Giles served faithfully and passionately. Miss Armitage, hard-voiced and unsympathetic, was something of a Hard Boiled Marie, while Mr. Giles and Mr. Harvey were the evil twins of the piece, the latter turning in an excellent bit of acting. John Sharkey, as a square-toed hotel detective, was made for comic purposes and played right up to his job.

"Badges" is good for more laughs than you can count.

Coming Events

SELWYN—"The Privateer." A new American comic opera by Shafter Howard and Kenneth A. Millican.

TREMONT—"No, No, Nanette." Musical comedy, featuring Louise Groody, and a breezy chorus.

ST. JAMES—"The Best People." Smart comedy of the average American and his family.

CHORUS SPEEDS UP 'BABY BLUE' AT WILBUR

Entrancing Melodies and Odd Dances Feature Pleasing Musical Comedy

Entrancing melodies and an exceptional chorus are the most pleasing memories of the opening of "Baby Blue," a musical comedy, at the Wilbur Theatre.

Altogether there are more than a score of songs on the musical program and virtually every one rates as the feature number from which the show takes its title.

The chorus number only twelve but for dancing ability, team work and enthusiasm, they provide an ensemble that is difficult to match. Several of their faces were familiar, having appeared in predecessors of "Baby Blue," no doubt.

HILLEBRAND PLEASING.

It may be unusual to turn first to the chorus in reviewing this presentation, but these dozen girlies are so youthfully fresh and take such an obvious delight in their work that for once the privates deserve the spotlight.

Of the principals, Fred Hillebrand, the comedian, made the best impression. His voice is pleasing enough and his tall frame and expressionless face made to order for the eccentric dancing which he puts over in sure-fire style. His "Spanish Juanita" song was particularly well done.

CREEPY DANCE.

Interposed in the show is a semi-classical and contortionist dance by Helen Wehrle. The fair Helen fairly gives one the creeps with her snaky stuff and was very well received.

There's just enough a plot to the show to give it good continuity and the other principals do their bits very nicely. With better lines they would probably stand out more.

'PEACE HARBOR' IS FINE, OLD DRAMA

W. H. Macart Scores in Play That Portrays Life in a Seacoast Town

You'll remember "Peace Harbor" as a blending of so many aromas; such as, for instance, the stinging, tangy flavor of the salt sea; the sour, seductive bouquet of mellow bourbon, or perhaps it was rye; scent of a thousand flowers in a lady's perfume not made of flowers at all; bank mud flats giving up a quarter of a million, and the mouldy, rotted stench of a villian's deep dye.

Out of the whole, however, rises an agreeable, heady vapor that you'll inhale at the Majestic Theatre with satisfaction and the remark that, "Give 'em musical shows if they like 'em; what I like is a darn good little play."

Oh, the Springtime and the "meller-drammer" and the laughter of it all! And William H. Macart, who wrote it and played it and who is as nice a character as you'd want to have around the house!

"Peace Harbor" possesses all the underpinnings of true and tried heart-throb-comedy-drama, even to the baby, the hidden past, the gun-that-went-off-in-the-struggle, the impoverished old folks, the grasping rich man of the village, the gossips—or what else do you remember!

You forget the integral parts, however, for the comedy drama of a staid Long Island town is above mere picking to pieces. Macart and his collaborator, Ethlynne Bradford, have made an excellent job of it and Macart plays in sympathetic fashion the leading role of a combination Lightnin', Lazybones the Old Soak and Joshua Whitcomb.

One of the best bits of the evening is a rural love-making scene between Frank Fisner and Ehlrie Gilmore, but there are many more.

In the cast the others are Grace Reals, John Anthony, Elizabeth Bellairs, Charles Abbe, Mark Sullivan, Harold Hartsell, Isabel O'Madigan, William Williams and Henry W. Pemberton.

PAUL SPECHT'S BAND SCORES AT KEITH'S

A good orchestra or a good band always gets a warm reception in Boston which is one reason for the crowded house at B. F. Keith's Theatre last night, for Paul Specht and his band, record makers for the phonograph, are the principal attraction. The band gives a pleasing interpretation of many favorite numbers and is generous with its encores, which does not hold true of the majority of stage orchestras.

Stella Mayhew shared with the band in popularity on the bill. Fenton and Fields, always a welcome combination; Berkes and Terry, Ferry Corwey and Harry Kahne are other excellent offerings. Wilson Aubrey Trio and the Rose Kress Four, together with the weekly comedy and news reel complete an all around good show.

SOMERVILLE PLAYERS IN SERIES OF MUSICAL PLAYS

"Good Morning, Dearie," was done by the Somerville Players last evening. This is the first of a series of musical shows which this organization will put on and served to reintroduce Leeta Corder to the patrons of the playhouse. Miss Corder's appearance was the signal for a demonstration which was both spontaneous and warm hearted.

Several new faces were also seen last night, among them being Laurette Adams, Asya Kass, Joan Kroy and Walter Plimmer, Jr. Of the older members in the cast, there were Frank Thomas, Booth Howard, Hal Stack, Isabelle Pitt Lewis and Frank Peck. A clever chorus took care of the ensembles.

"ZANDER THE GREAT" TO MAKE BOSTON DEBUT

Manager Joseph H. Brennan announces that next week at Loew's State Theatre there will be screened for the first time in Boston and vicinity Salisbury Field's great Broadway success, "Zander the Great," with the ever popular Marion Davies in the stellar role. The picture depicts the most unusual and the most resourceful adventures in a land full of adventure. Thrills and laughs will follow each other in swift succession, and all will be happily blended with a note of pathos such as all are pleased to experience.

"PROUD FLESH" FEATURES LOEW'S STATE PROGRAM

Old world culture pitted against new world democracy, with a girl's heart weighing in the balance, is the basis of the story of "Proud Flesh," the principal photoplay feature at Loew's State Theatre yesterday. The story starts with the pyrotechnics of the San Francisco earthquake. Eleanor Boardman, who is featured in the picture, was never more captivating. Pat O'Malley plays the part of the American lover, while Harrison Ford is seen as the Spaniard.

The second picture was a remarkable picturization of Jack London's tale of love and daring on a South Sea isle, called "Adventure."

SONG AND DANCE HITS IN LOEW'S ORPHEUM BILL

Heading the vaudeville bill at the Orpheum yesterday was the Zaza & Adele Revue, a potpourri of songs and dances which were right up to the minute in beauty of [illegible], perfection of execution and quality of voice.

Monte and Lyons took the house by storm with a delightful brand of harmony and hilarity, and Jules Furst and Co. gave a unique exhibition which was much appreciated.

"Seven Chances," the film feature, is a picturization of the David Belasco stage success of several seasons back. Buster Keaton has inserted his usual quota of "gags" and in doing so has added a great deal more fun to the story of the original play.

SUNDAY NIGHT BENEFIT FOR THEATRE TREASURER

Stage performers and theatre goers of Greater Boston will give a demonstration of their friendship for Lawrence [illegible], treasurer of Waldron's Casino, by turning out in great numbers to attend a benefit performance for him on Sunday evening. The performance will be held at Waldron's Casino. Scores of members of the vaudeville profession volunteered their services to make up an exceptionally long and interesting program. Photo plays will be added to the bill.

POPE GIVES AUDIENCE TO BALTIMORE PILGRIMS

Rome, April 28.—Led by Father J. K. Cartwright, introduced by Father Burke, vicerector of the American College, ninety-six Baltimore pilgrims were received by the Pope in special audience.

After the pilgrims kissed the hand of the Pope, the Pontiff made a speech in which he expressed gratification at the work the Catholics were doing in Baltimore and said he would follow the progress of their trip, especially at Lourdes.

Well-Merited Success

A distinguished citizen, honored politically and professionally, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears above, made a success few have equalled. His pure herbal remedies which have stood the test for fifty years are still among the "best sellers." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and stomach alterative. It clears the skin, beautifies it, increases the blood supply and the circulation, and pimples and eruptions vanish quickly. Beauty is but skin deep and good blood is beneath both. For your blood to be good your stomach must be in condition, your liver active. This Discovery of Doctor Pierce's puts you in fine condition, with all the organs active. Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10 cents for trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y.

MANY LAUGHS IN ST. JAMES OFFERING

"Little Miss Bluebeard" Draws Crowded House of Stock Patrons

There isn't a laugh in every line but there are as many of them and just enough in between and at the end to make the offering at St. James Theatre this week the best of its kind ever given by the Boston Stock Company.

"Little Miss Bluebeard," written by Avery Hopwood, is a play that the patrons of St. James have been longing to see and judging by the crowded house on the opening of the week's run it promises to be a drawing attraction.

Bernard Nedell as Larry Charters, and Elsie Hitz, as Collette, furnish the dramatic entertainment, while Houston Richards, as The Honorable Bertie Bird, is the real laugh producer. His part as a calmer of women, in love with Larry Charters, is the hit of the evening for those who prefer the humorous side of things.

Potatoes Breathe, Scientist's Test Discloses

Washington, April 28.—If anyone steps up to you and asks:

"Does a potato breathe?"—The answer is "Yes."

Otherwise you will display your ignorance.

Drs. F. G. Novy and M. H. Soule of Michigan University told fellow scientists at the meeting of the National Academy of Sciences that they got the "dope" on potatoes by placing oxygen in a test tube.

The potato consumed all of the oxygen in the tube and returned a corresponding amount of carbonic acid gas.

HOTEL MEN ATTEND ATLANTIC CITY EXHIBIT

Atlantic City, April 28. — The annual National Spring Hotel Exposition which was opened in the arcade of the steel pier drew to Atlantic City representatives of the business from many cities between New England and the Everglades and the Golden Gate and Gotham.

Primarily the purpose of the exposition was to promote a spirit of fraternity and solidarity among the hotel men of America.

TROLLEY LINE GETS RIGHT TO RUN BUSSES

Southbridge Grants Sole Franchise to Worcester Consolidated

Southbridge, Mass., April 28.—Worcester Consolidated Street Railway Company was granted exclusive permission to run busses between Worcester and Southbridge and to outlying sections of the town by the selectmen after a long hearing.

It was the first permission given the trolley company to run busses as a supplementary service to its trolley lines. Three independently owned bus lines were refused bus line licenses.

BERLENBACH AND M'TIGUE START TRAINING FOR TITLE GO

TUNNEY TO GET FIT FOR GIBBONS

By SID MERCER.

New York, April 28.—With clocks turned forward an hour to stretch daylight and a June balm pervading the air, the call of the great wide open spaces beckons the principals in the big outdoor boxing shows scheduled for the next few weeks.

First to announce the location of their Spring training bases were Mike McTigue and Paul Berlenbach, whose fifteen-round frolic will feature the milk fund show at the Yankee Stadium May 29. McTigue goes to work this week at Summit, N. J., and Berlenbach near Southampton, L. I.

The astute Doc Bagley will preside over McTigue's camp and Dan Hickey, late of the New York Athletic Club, will devote all his time to Berlenbach's training.

Tunney has been persuaded to abandon his old camp at Red Bank, N. J., and may seek some quiet spot convenient to a good golf course in Westchester County. Gibbons may locate on one of the high peaks in Jersey, possibly Summit. The St. Paul boxer liked the seashore and Eddie Kane, his manager likes the hills. Like Tunney, Gibbons wants a good golf course near at hand.

Prices for the three approaching outdoor shows will be fixed by the Boxing Commission soon. The Berlenbach-McTigue quarrel and the Gibbons match probably will be scaled from $2 to $15.

LEWIS SIGNS TO MEET LUNDEN ON MAY 7

Ed Strangler Lewis has finally signed to meet Alex Lunden, the Swedish sensation of the Pacific Coast, in a finish match at the Boston Arena on Thursday, May 7. Ed held out for a long time as Promoter Paul Bowser insisted that the Strangler's championship belt go to the winner of the event. It will be some match with the winner in doubt until the final bell sounds.

Followers of Angelo Taramaschi can see nothing but a win for him in his finish bout at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night with Toots Mondt, the Colorado Cow Boy.

Angelo has beaten every Italian wrestler he has met with the exception of Leone Labriola. Oreste Vadalfia and Renati Gardini have repeatedly refused to meet him. He is the real Italian champion and stands ready to defend his title against all comers.

In meeting Mondt he takes on a real wrestler. Mondt, by beating John Pesek at Kansas City last year and by defeating Stanislaus Zbyszko in Chicago six weeks ago, has proved to the followers of wrestling he is a star grappler.

The winner of the Mondt-Taramaschi bout on Thursday night will be matched to meet Stanley Stasiak, the Polish champion, in one of the all-star cards that go with the Lewis-Lunden bout at the Arena May 7.

As a semi-final Thursday night at the Grand, Stasiak will meet Farmer Stevens in a one-fall no-time limit contest. On the same card Leone Labriola, the Lion of Italy, will oppose Frank Yusko, the Lithuanian champion. Alex Lunden will tackle some good man in the opening bout of the evening.

JOHNNY ANDRESSANO AFTER GO WITH MURPHY

Johnny Andressano, East Boston sensation, is boxing in championship form and is desirous of meeting the best lightweights in the country. Johnny would like nothing any better than to journey to Lowell and give Billie Murphy a boxing lesson.

JOHNSON TAKES MOUND AGAINST FOHLMEN

By NICK FLATLEY

The Washington Senators, who take on the Red Sox again this afternoon at the Fenway, are traveling the same trail that led them to glory last year. They chase out a venerable pitcher, support him splendidly, and carry him through if his wing doesn't wilt. If the old boy goes sour, the lion-hearted Fred Marbury is rushed to the rescue and the Senators win the ball game.

That procedure upset all the dope a year ago, and it's heading the champs in the right direction right now. Bucky Harris gave a demonstration opening here. He introduced George Mogridge for a starter, and let that venerable southpaw go for seven innings. Then he took George out, although the old boy was having a lot of fun with the Sox, And the big Texas rescuer finished up. It's a great system.

These athletes from the Capitol have the right idea. They're never licked. They went into the ninth, apparently defeated, and before the dust settled they had the ball game. That's why they're champs. It was a sad, sad story, in keeping with the misfortune that seems to have parked on the Sox banner this Spring.

The ancient Walter Johnson, who has completed his memoirs, and attendant law suits, and can therefore pin all his attention on pitching, was billed to toss them today. Walter has been bending curves around bats since long before the girls stopped wearing high shoes, but he still ranks with the really great. This is his last year—for the nineteenth time—so he expects to win a lot of games.

The Sox were ready to use Aleck Ferguson, and burned joss and offered prayers and all that in the hope that the sharpshooter would drop into his real form and produce something. The Fohls are playing well enough in the field to get a fifty-fifty break with anybody, provided their pitching equals the hostile brand.

The initial defeat by the Senators was a heart breaker, but it had its bright spots.

Bouts Last Night

At Lynn—Johnny Sheppard of Woburn won the decision over Tony Thomas of New Bedford, ten rounds; Joe Munroe of Charlestown defeated Billy Brady of Woburn, eight rounds; George French of Boston was given the decision over Teddy Reynolds of Salem, six rounds; Billy Mudoon of Lynn forced the Barbados Panther of Africa to quit in the fourth round.

At New Bedford—Frank Moody of England won over Bing Conley of Lewiston, the referee stopping the bout in the fifth round, with Conley in a badly wilted condition; Pride of Wales stopped Johnny Dias of Fall River, three rounds.

At Buffalo, N. Y.—Sid Terris, New York, won on a foul from Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, in the fifth round.

At Rochester, N. Y.—"Chubby" Brown of Rochester and Archie Walker of New York boxed ten rounds to a draw.

BRAVES FACE EHRHARDT IN THIRD GAME

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 28.—Fifty-fifty stands the first series of the year between the Braves and the Dodgers.

Rube Marquard on Sunday pitched one of the best games that will be pitched in the big league this year and shut out the Dodgers 3 to 0. That was a great ball game and the Braves beat a great pitcher, Burleigh Grimes. Then came the game of yesterday in which Jess Petty, southpaw, nearly ready to go back to the minors, held the Braves to four hits and the Dodgers flogged a flock of four Boston pitchers for fourteen base hits, making the final score 15 to 2.

Two more games remain in the series and the Braves will have to show a lot of improvement. They may have to face Rube Ehrhardt today and Dazzy Vance tomorrow.

Manager Bancroft has troubles enough with his pitching staff to keep one man worrying, but he or somebody else will have to worry about that present infield because it will not do. The catchers, Bernie Neis and Bancroft are the only Braves who have been in the two games who seem to have understood that they were in major league. Of course, Rube Marquard is another exception.

Zbyszko on Tonight

Philadelphia, April 28.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, word's heavyweight champion, will defend his title here tonight against Renato Gardini. The bout will be at one fall to a finish.

YACHTSMEN TO HEAR M'MILLAN GIVE TALK

By GEORGE W. GRIMM.

Members of the Boston Yacht Club will gather on Friday evening at the Rowes Wharf station of the organization and tender Captain Donald B. McMillan, Arctic explorer, a reception and dinner at 6 o'clock. Explorer McMillan more than likely will give the yachtsman an interesting talk in regards to his coming adventurous trip to the Arctic regions.

The Boston Yacht Club has got away to an early stat, this season, according to the house committee, which claims that the largest gathering of members ever to get their craft out before the Spring season really starts havea lready hitched up to the buoys or anchors in the deep.

The South Boston station of the organization is already in commission for the season, while at Marblehead station things are going along good, with a busy schedule of events arranged, while there is a lot being promised for the Hull station.

GOSLIN AND BOONE HEROES IN EYES OF GIRL REPORTER

TELLS HOW SLUGGERS PLAYED

By THE GIRL REPORTER

Yesterday was Ladies' Day with the Red Sox

When the Editor told me to go up and have a look at the game I protested mildly that I had never seen one.

"Well, that'll be all the better," was the only consolation he gave me.

So I dashed off feeling a trifle nervous because I was afraid I wouldn't be able to tell the difference between the home team and the visitors [illegible] who was the batter and who was the pitcher

WONDERFUL DAY

It was a [illegible] day however and everyone in Boston seemed to be making for Fenway Park. I just drifted along with the crowd and presently found myself in the stand looking [illegible] the diamond

By the way Roger had trotted along, [illegible] the game he said, and we settled ourselves [illegible] of the post and started to look things over

Brilliant [illegible] the red and white of the Boston team and the more sober [illegible] of the Washington nine the green stretched [illegible] before us. Overhead a plane [illegible] and twisted in [illegible] the [illegible] man tried out his wings

At the farther gate a group of small boys [illegible] at the enchanted spot and tried the time honored method of "[illegible]ing the cop"

Just beside us a fat lady squeezed herself into a seat saying to her meek looking spouse "Now Thomas I expect you to tell me all about it" Thomas made no reply

The crackling of peanuts mingled with the shouts of the boys who dispensed ice cream and "pop" gave a circus atmosphere to the scene

Presently there was a stir among the crowd "They're starting" said Roger clutching my arm

"Oh [illegible]" yelled a youngster [illegible] stamping vigorously [illegible] Washington went [illegible] while the Boston team [illegible] around the field

GOSLIN AT BAT.

[illegible] I demanded

Roger [illegible] so I [illegible] rounds [illegible] I should say I had the [illegible] settled

"[illegible] with the ball [illegible]" inquired a damsel behind [illegible] growled her escort [illegible]

It was [illegible], left handed pitcher who caused the comment. He has a funny way of winding up—sort of standing on one foot but he doesn't let many get by. In fact for a while all anyone did was go out one after the other for various reasons and at the end of the third inning no one had scored any runs though a lot of them had "bit the dust"

Everyone seemed interested when in the fourth Goslin took the bat "He's a whale of a home run hitter," vouchsafed Roger

"Does he hit all the time?" asked the sweet young thing behind me "No" growled her escort, "not all the time" Just then Goslin was put out to a chorus of disappointed "Ohs" from the stands.

Then the Red Sox came to bat again. Boone, wielding a wicked stick, thumped the ball way over to the end of the field. It looked like a sure enough home run hit. A wild howl from a grad behind the fat lady was promptly suppressed when she turned around and said severely, "Young man, I'll thank you to take your feet out of my back"

NO RUNS

But there wasn't a single run. Rice, way in the outfield, just reached up a hand in his nonchalant manner and picked that pill right out of the air He got an ovation as they changed positions

In the fifth inning nothing startling occurred Boone made a pretty catch which put Leibold out of commission The boy behind us said something about "flied out" "You mean 'flew'" reproved the sweet young thing The Boy laughed heartlessly "Don't you ask any like that" warned Roger "or I'll leave you" The question I was going to ask died unspoken.

"Hot Dog, 'atta boy Boone" in a wild shriek from the youngsters in front brought me back to the [illegible] event

Boone at bat swung the ball up for a lovely hit and got a man. I don't remember who on 3rd base, Veach hit a double and the net result was a run for the home team

The youngster in front got so excited that he lost his balance and fell over the seat ahead whence he was fished out by a kind-hearted fan and placed right side up

In the seventh Josh managed to make second Then everybody stood up "Thomas, I can't get up" remonstrated the fat lady. "You don't have to" said Thomas and then everyone sat down again

The eighth round brought Marberry to pitch and Matthews to punch hit Matthews hit the ball all right and got safely to first but somewhere between first and second someone threw the ball at him and he tripped over it and fell ignominiously to the dust.

Marberry jazzed matters up by putting one out and catching two, which was pretty good

Then Rice grabbed the bat and hit a pretty one which was caught [illegible] by Flagstead and Goslin came in to take his place

Goslin stood with an air of gravity The bal rent the atmosphere Twice because Goslin sent it right to the other end of the lot The Red Sox outfield made a mad dash for it but it just slipped through his clutch he brought up against the hard boards of the stand

Whereupon the Goose musta put butter on it [illegible] the youngster in front

Somebody else namely Peckinpaugh put some butter on another one and it slid neatly through the Boston outfield, thereby clutching the game for the Harris outfit.

Whereupon everyone got up and dashed for the cars.

The Truth on Dempsey

By JACK CONWAY

The American sporting public is disgusted with reading the many contradictory reports sent out by Jack Dempsey, Jack Kearns and their dozen or more press agents and advance men.

Dempsey as heavyweight champion is [illegible] of public interest. As soon as some young man stronger than the champion and possessed of greater skill hits him on the chin hard enough to send him to the canvas for ten seconds, Dempsey will be forgotten and the new sensation will receive the attention of the fans.

Dempsey today is twenty-nine years old, is possessed of more than a million dollars, and prefers a [illegible] with his bride, Estelle Taylor, to the serious duties of the training camp and the hard knocks of actual battle.

The champion probably never will fight again. He will not make an announcement of this fact as it would ruin the moving pictures in which he and his wife are the stars. As heavyweight champion of the world, Dempsey is a tremendous box office attraction even in the movies. If he were a retired titleholder his drawing powers would drop 50 per cent

Dempsey must fight Harry Wills if he is to show in New York. And Dempsey does not wish to meet Wills in THE RING. He has always avoided a contest with the negro. The champion can hardly be blamed, as he has been able to get the big money by taking on much easier opponents than Wills.

Dempsey recently announced that when he fights again it will be under the direction of Tex Rickard, who operated in New Jersey as well as in New York. Speaking of a Dempsey-Wills bout Rickard said

"I shall never promote a mixed contest between Dempsey and Wills. It would be suicide for the boxing game to do so."

Dempsey today weighs more than 212 pounds, twelve pounds above his best fighting form. He has been out of the ring for almost two years. Unless given a very ordinary opponent like Tom Gibbons or Gene Tunney you will never see Dempsey in the ring again. Millionaires don't do their fighting with their fists anyway

LOWRIE AGAIN UNDER SPELL OF ESTELLE

Nearly Parted When She Suspected His Mother Was Her Rival

"If it's your mother, more power to you. I haven't seen mine for nearly five years, or my little brother. Call—call me up when you can. Goodby."

I hesitated before replacing the receiver.

"But are you really in need of help, Estelle?" I inquired.

"Forget it!" she laughed. "Wasn't I eating three squares a day before I met you? Have a good time, Don—treat her like a queen and never mind me. I'm—I'm——" I heard a catch in her voice as she replaced the receiver without finishing.

"What an unearthly hour to call you up," commented mother. "She must be very eccentric. What does she look like?"

Mentally I seized on the word "eccentric" like a drowning man to a straw.

"Oh, a dumpy little thing," I replied carelessly. "Wears goggles, and all that."

"Isn't that interesting," said mother. "How old is she?"

"Oh, about forty-five, I should judge. Wears flat heeled shoes and kind of pigeon toed."

"Really?" said mother. "I can imagine how she must annoy you. You must squelch her. I know the type—they pester the life out of successful people—sort of try to hitch their wagon to a star, when they haven't even got a wagon. A rising man with your ability can't afford to tolerate such distractions. And that makes me think, Donald, you've said nothing about it to me, but I suppose you are interested in someone. And you'll be getting married one of these days?"

"No, I've been too busy," I replied. "Girls don't interest me."

"You'll get over that, son," she continued seriously, "and when you do be sure to look before you leap. Matrimony is the most serious step in life."

"No danger," I laughed, sheepishly. "I'm awfully sleepy—think I'll go to bed."

BRAVE SOUL THAT SHINES THROUGH EYES

My mother sat there with a smile on her lips—a look of luminous faith in her eyes. Perhaps every man's mother seems beautiful to him. Mine may not have been beautiful, but she had a sweet brave soul, and it shone in her eyes.

The look of her sitting there smote through me with a bitter pain. I couldn't help wondering what so dear a woman had done to deserve the son that I was. I had imagination enough to know the dreams she cherished during my boyhood.

None of those dreams would ever be realized. Yet there she sat with her gentle hands folded and her incredible loyalty, she shut away the past and serenely builded new ladders for my future.

Watching her, I felt an unbearable regret for the few lost steps I had already taken. And at the same time I felt mighty with strength.

I went over and kissed my mother and secretly vowed that I would climb the ladders she was building.

Mother left on Saturday morning. I accompanied her to Oakland and saw her into her compartment on the Overland. When the train pulled out and she was definitely gone from my life again I started rather lonesomely back to the ferry to await the boat returning to the city.

FAMILY THINKS ESTELLE WORKS IN CANDY STORE

Suddenly I recalled Estelle's voice of the night before—its unexpected break and tenderness when I told her of my mother's visit. A pity for Estelle and a longing to see her caught me. What secret chords had vibrated to the memory of old dear faces, old forgotten sweetness?

I wanted to talk to Estelle—be with someone friendly. She was at home and overjoyed at my visit. We talked. I learned that she came from a small northern California city, where her mother, little brother and a half-grown sister lived.

"I send them money every week—father died when I was fourteen," she said. "They think I'm working in a candy store. I—I hope I'll be able to get up there to see them this summer—"

Her voice broke and she started to weep silently. I took her hand.

"It's awful, Donald," she sobbed, "and this is the first time I've cried over it for two years. I—"

Suddenly she smiled through her tears.

"Let me get you some lunch," she exclaimed, jumping to her feet. "I have—let's see—canned soup, canned salmon, canned asparagus, canned beans and canned peaches. What will you have, mister?"

THOUGHTS OF EDITH BRING REPUGNANCE

A few minutes later we sat down to a little table, from which a few books and magazines and a small black elephant [illegible] had been removed to make place for dishes. It was a dainty little repast, with tea and little sweet crackers for dessert. I enjoyed it, so did Estelle. But once, as she was serving me with a second cup of tea, my thoughts reverted to Techau Tavern and the luncheon with Edith.

The memory was repugnant.

I helped clear away and wash the dishes and then Estelle sat down with me to show me some snap-shots and other pictures which she reverently produced from her trunk. A picture of a little country schoolhouse, one of her mother, one of her "baby" brother, and so on. She kept up a running fire of recollections, completely lost to her present surroundings. As she bent over the collection I stole a long look at her profiled face. It was beautiful—saintly.

I suddenly realized that I was with a good woman—the real kind—one that I could understand if no one else could.

We spent the afternoon talking—or rather she talked and I listened. We went on straw rides, to barn dances, Sunday school picnics, weddings, christenings together. It was night before we knew it.

Out in the hall as I was bidding her goodby she leaned against me.

"I never knew you until today, Donald," she breathed. "And thank you so much."

I gulped out some sort of answer and ran down the stairs, close to the breaking point.

On the boat going across the bay it suddenly occurred to me that no thought of whisky had entered my head, nor had I entertained a single un-platonic thought all day. I felt it had been one of the happiest days of my life.

that the Hindenburg election was not one of politics, but of sentiment.

He declared that, so far from encouraging the Monarchists, Von Hindenburg's election would discourage them. They would see the most powerful man in Germany going over to the Republican party as head of the Republic. They would abandon hope of any Hohenzollern restoration in this generation, knowing that Hindenburg would not have accepted the nomination except in good faith.

PLEASING undoubtedly to the important financial leaders at Mr. Krech's luncheon was the German Ambassador's statement that while Marshal Von Hindenburg, as head of the Republic, would belong to no one of the many German parties, he did represent the idea of discipline and respect for law.

He predicted that Von Hindenburg's election would not in any way encourage the Monarchist party, but would be considered most discouraging by the comparatively small party of extreme German Radicals and Communists.

THE AMBASSADOR also referred to the small amount of power exercised by a German President, as compared with an American President.

The German President, elected for seven years, can be recalled. He does not veto laws passed by the Reichstag. He merely presides over a government which is in the hands of the people's elected representatives and does not govern.

Baron Von Maltzan did not refer to it, but it is a fact that the President of the German Republic has not one-tenth the governing power of a President of the United States.

THE BRIEF talk by Ambassador Von Maltzan evidently was encouraging and reassuring to the gathering of important American financiers, many of whom had in mind the question that Mr. Krech put to the Ambassador.

HIGH FINANCE in general showed signs of nervousness here and in Europe yesterday, following the election. The German government 7 per cent bonds floated in this country recently, dropped to a new low price early in the day. Francs fell in value. In Berlin German industrial stocks dropped from two to five points.

GENERAL VON HINDENBURG is an old man. He took part in the Austrian war in 1866. The question will be asked: "What is back of Von Hindenburg?" Many will answer, mistakenly let us hope:

"Behind him stands His Royal and Imperial Highness, William Hohenzollern, militarism, and the determination to repair with the sword the injury done by the sword, of course."

Here in America let us hope for the best, mind our own business, and let Europe do the same, if she will be kind enough to do so.

CHAPTER XXXII.

THERE is no [illegible] that the letters written to me by my mother, [illegible] were given in the preceding chapter showed [illegible] attention and solicitude for her family. Devotion such as hers is seldom found. The trouble with us children was that we took everything for granted. Only in later years, when I observed how other mothers treated their children did I really appreciate my mother's love.

Soon after she returned from North Carolina I fell ill with chicken pox, having caught it from my little nephew, Anthony Drexel, III., who, with his parents and sisters, was spending the Winter with us. I was ashamed to have such an infantile disease at the mature age of eighteen. Mamma, despite the presence of a trained nurse, took personal care of me. In fact, she always looked after the children when they were ill, giving up all her engagements to do so.

I was in an embarrassing quandary. I loved Mamma so much that I dreaded telling her of my betrothal to Carroll. But I did not wish to give up Carroll and I realized that Mamma were she informed, would ask me to do so, for a little while, at least. I was in this unsettled state of mind when the mumps followed the chicken pox. To add to my discomfiture, Mamma confided to me her fears about Papa's health. This worry seemed to weigh on her constantly and I did not wish to add to it by telling her of my romance.

On my recovery a circumstance occurred that decided me on a course of action. A member of the family said to me: "Mamma has discovered that you are very fond of Carroll Wainwright. She is going to take you abroad for two or three years."

3 POLICEMEN ACCUSED BY JUDGE

A lone $10 bill brought three policemen before a trial board at headquarters today on a charge of conduct unbecoming officers.

The trio, Patrolmen Michael E. O'Hare of the West Roxbury station and Albert J. Phillips and Edward J. Keating of the Jamaica Plain station, are alleged [illegible] involved in an [illegible] automobile case [illegible]

Judge J. Albert [illegible] West Roxbury court was a witness against the accused cops, who chased Daniel Kelly of Somerset [illegible] the way from West Roxbury to his home after Kelly is alleged to have committed a motor [illegible]

According to [illegible] Brackett the [illegible] taken in the charge and Kelly was guilty of only a minor infraction. [illegible] by Phillips and Keating [illegible] placed the case on file.

Two days later O'Hare is alleged to have visited Judge Brackett and to have asked him to dismiss the Kelly case altogether [illegible] Kelly's license might not be endangered.

Judge Brackett then put O'Hare, Phillips, Keating and Kelly under oath and drew from Kelly the admission, it is alleged, that he had paid O'Hare $10 to fix the case.

A few months ago an undeveloped tract of land—now a beautiful section traversed by [illegible] roads. Steam shovels are in daily operation, [illegible] tifying the contour and enhancing the [illegible] entire tract. From the hammer and saw of [illegible] builders have come hundreds of beautiful homes into which families are moving, happy [illegible] thought of living in an ideal community.

THE TRANSFORMATION OF WOLLASTON LANDS---BY THE WOLLASTON LAND & CONSTRUCTION CO.

The vision of the Edward T. Harrington Co. organization in selecting this location, the skillful care devoted to the plans of these [illegible] with which these [illegible] of New England business. Here is an ideal location developed with great skill by a conservative concern, making available for a low price [illegible] land suitable for home [illegible]

WOLLASTON is a year round residential section. [illegible] the development is but a short distance from the beach and there [illegible] Summer [illegible] single house [illegible] All of the present population have purchased because of the desirability of living in Wollaston all year round. Here [illegible] Yacht Club, Golf Club, [illegible] property. Here [illegible] outdoor life, the companionship of desirable neighbors, the pleasure which attends ownership of your [illegible]

Wollaston, Norfolk Downs and [illegible] stations are but three minutes' walk from the property [illegible] of the schools [illegible] Wollaston district [illegible] development has reflected [illegible] value [illegible] government? The water supply? The school system? The beauty of the land? Facilities for commuting? The reputation of the developers? Is it a sound investment which will increase in value? To these questions we can assure you of a positive answer—the value of this property can not be duplicated at the price.

What more could you want? In Summer: a playground of New England. In Winter: an ideal community conveniently near Boston. Here life is worth living. We have made it possible for you to buy. Select your lot now. Price of land in this vicinity has already increased in value. We anticipate a general increase in the near future. Buy now!

Our Motto
Quality Plus Service

There are awnings that remind you of ill fitting clothes—and there are awnings like new garments that compel your admiration. There are awnings that scream at you—and there are awnings whose harmony of colors is a cheery invitation to enjoy the entire home. In short, there are "awnings and there are HOYT'S AWNINGS"!

Guided by this difference, you can make no mistake in the choice of awnings for your windows, your terrace, your sleeping porch. Telephone for a HOYT expert to show you the HOYT awnings for 1925. Estimates furnished Free. To avoid any delay in installation order your awnings early.

By buying direct from us you save the middleman's profit.

We are the originators of advanced awning designs.

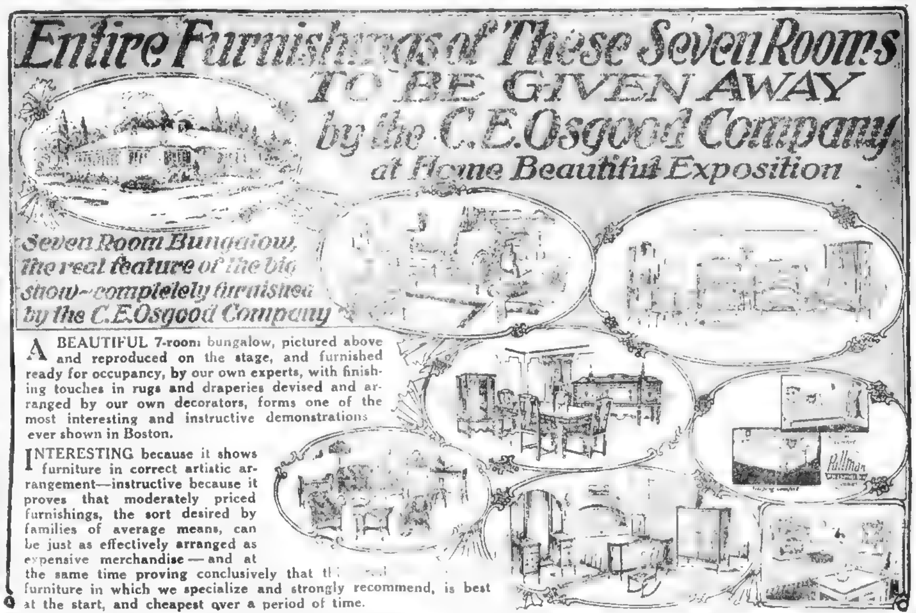
Entire Furnishings of These Seven Rooms TO BE GIVEN AWAY by the C. E. Osgood Company at Home Beautiful Exposition



Seven Room Bungalow, the real feature of the big show—completely furnished by the C. E. Osgood Company
Pullman

A BEAUTIFUL 7-room bungalow, pictured above and reproduced on the stage, and furnished ready for occupancy, by our own experts, with finishing touches in rugs and draperies devised and arranged by our own decorators, forms one of the most interesting and instructive demonstrations ever shown in Boston.

INTERESTING because it shows furniture in correct artistic arrangement—instructive because it proves that moderately priced furnishings, the sort desired by families of average means, can be just as effectively arranged as expensive merchandise — and at the same time proving conclusively that th[illegible] furniture in which we specialize and strongly recommend, is best at the start, and cheapest over a period of time.

AT either of our stores you will find in almost endless array single pieces and suites like the ones featured—as well as a big representation in grades costing more money—with plenty at even lower prices, but not in our judgment as desirable from a standpoint of Value and Service.

Be Sure That You Visit This Wonderful Showing of Real Quality Home Furnishings. All of Which We Will Give Away Saturday Evening, May 2, at Mechanics Hall.

More than [illegible] houses already have been built and [illegible] are in the process of construction, with 45 sites sold during the past two months on which plans are being perfected now for residential properties.

Exceptional single and two family homes grace the area at present. Builders have taken pride in this community and have made every effort to build dwellings in keeping with the development. One may [illegible] a home at prices from [illegible] to $7,000 for single residences and from $1[illegible] to $11[illegible] for two-family homes.

The Harrington Company offers [illegible] to the prospective home builder in the sale of the house lots. [illegible] Lots range in price from $[illegible] upward on terms that are purposely made attractive to those of moderate income and [illegible] suit the individual's pocketbook.

Plans for homes can be obtained, if desired, and it is possible to get contractors operating in this section to build a house and own home [illegible] $1,000 exclusive of the cost of the lot. Houses already [illegible] by the contractors who have purchased lots in this development in anticipation of the future prospects in store for the section may be bought on payment of $1,000 down and each home is built with such care that the average home lover will delight in [illegible] the property.

FIRE MENACES BUSINESS DISTRICT OF WEBSTER

Webster, April 28.—The centre of the business district here was threatened by a fire of undetermined origin which broke out in the ohen Block and caused damage estimated at $8,000 early today.

While the fire department fought the flames volunteers moved stock of the Samuel Silver's provision store on the ground floor and furniture from two tenements on the upper floors.

The firemen kept nearby buildings wet down during the progress of the blaze and prevented its spread.

METAL GARAGE GAINING BIG POPULARITY

Just about the time we get [illegible] complex [illegible] being [illegible] Frank [illegible] when [illegible] electricity of the roads. Since then along has come the telephone, radio and a thousand and one other improvements, among them the heating of modern steam [illegible] and passenger coaches [illegible]

Now [illegible] we learn [illegible] of [illegible] in building materials, wood and concrete [illegible] superseded by something [illegible] long as [illegible] rust resisting galvanized [illegible] stone [illegible] steel [illegible] fireproof portable [illegible] garages by [illegible] Whittredge Portable Buildings [illegible] of West Lynn. By Ruth Logan

“I [illegible] Mrs. Pren[illegible] she flung a tea cup onto the enameled top of the kitchen table and broke it to bits. “I hate this house, this kitchen, this dirty soul-[illegible] I sometimes [illegible] I didn't hate John.”

[illegible] Mrs. Devers [illegible] to her [illegible] and re-[illegible]

Something Besides Work

“It's all right for you to sit there [illegible] you [illegible]

“Yes, I [illegible]

[illegible] what he would. It [illegible] her. [illegible] He thinks more of that old office than he does of me. I watched you and your husband as you left the house last night. You were such a happy, stunning couple. I never was as discontented as I am now. I think [illegible] living so close to you and seeing what your husband makes life for you that upsets me like this.”

Anne Devers traced a little pattern in the linoleum with the tip of [illegible] and made no reply. Had Molly noticed she could have seen [illegible] twitching of the muscles about the woman's firmly closed lips.

Married Now

“I'm not going to stand it forever, I can tell you! John doesn't seem to realize that I used to have [illegible] friends and I can gather them up again. You may not think it to look at [illegible] around this [illegible] Teddy [illegible]—yes, [illegible] Teddy Langford used to think I was pretty necessary to his hap[illegible] He still does.”

“Teddy Langford is married now,” Anne said quickly.

[illegible] John [illegible]

“Well I rather think they aren't. Teddy used to spend more in an hour than John does in a month.”

“Have you?” was the quick challenge.

“We saw him last night. He may have been nice to you, but he isn't nice to the girl he married. With all his money, he gives her an allowance that John would never think of offering you. And he is flagrantly untrue to her. He boasts of his conquests to her. Could you endure that, Molly, or do you prefer your sink full of dishes.”

“Perhaps she wasn't the girl for him,” said Molly. “I knew how to get along with him.”

“You weren't married to him, my dear. That makes a difference.”

“I really should have married him, Anne.”

“Then you would be in Mona[illegible] place now. Teddy couldn't love [illegible] woman, Molly. He loves women.”

Molly shook her head. “No.” [illegible]rogantly and wisely winked an [illegible]

Always Loved Her

“He calls me up every few [illegible] He says he always loved me.”

“Have you gone out with him?”

Molly shook her head. “No,” [illegible] said wisely. “I haven't. Somehow I couldn't bring myself to [illegible] But today I'm on the verge of desperation. I believe if he telephones, I shall go.”

Anne stayed on, although Molly showed in countless little ways that she was not delighted to have company. She made Anne rise several times from the little stool in order to put away dishes or get down others she found it necessary to wash.

The telephone jingled sharply just as she was trying to take from the top shelf of the pantry the old rose bowl that John had asked to have put out. He had given it to Molly shortly after their marriage. It was like him to want the old thing around, Molly explained, as [illegible] set it on the table and started [illegible] the telephone.

It was Teddy calling. He talked for five minutes, before Anne heard Molly's voice.

“No Teddy,” she was saying, “I can't. And I wish you wouldn't ring me up again. I don't know why you do it. I have never given you the slightest bit of encouragement.”

Anne sank back from her position of eavesdropper, and when Molly returned to the kitchen she found a calm young woman rising as if to depart.

“You won't see Teddy, will you?” Anne said with something of joy in her tone.

Would Hurt John

“Of course not. Just when I get around to thinking I will I think of John and how hurt he'd be. Something always crops up just in time to spoil my intentions. It's uncanny. If I hadn't just taken that rose bowl down and thought of the day John gave it to me.”

Anne Devers took Molly's shoulders between her two palms and forced the mutinous eyes to hers. “Molly, you want to take that rose bowl into the front room and make it into a shrine.”

“Oh, a lot you know about it,” flared Molly, “I just hate myself for being a coward.”

“It's not cowardice, my dear, to suffer some little loneliness that others may be happy. It is heroism and I'm going to make you love that rose bowl from now on.”

Molly sensed some hidden meaning in her neighbor's words.

“I was telling you about Teddy's unhappy wife,” said Anne. “I didn't tell you she was trying to get a divorce. It is proving almost impossible. Teddy is too clever to be caught and Mona has the three youngsters and must have alimony. Her detectives have not been able to get a bit of evidence. But yesterday, they discovered that Teddy had been telephoning some woman—you probably, Molly, although they didn't know her name. They were to have tapped his wire today to find out. That woman, could they have got [illegible] the slightest evidence, would have been named by Mrs. Langford.”

Ruin Her Life

“Anne,” shrieked Molly, “why didn't you tell me? You are no friend. You almost let me ruin my life and John's. You thought I was going to accept Teddy's invitation when I went to the telephone.”

“Yes, I did think so,” Anne admitted.

“And you would have let me rush into this trap? [illegible] have the courage to [illegible] face me. Have you [illegible] over here [illegible] morning just to [illegible] what you [illegible] for Mrs. Langford?”

“No, because I didn't know you were the woman Teddy was [illegible] But I [illegible] had I known and I wanted to [illegible] your [illegible] Your husband and [illegible] have been making plans together [illegible] Molly, for [illegible] John [illegible] would [illegible] came over [illegible] when you broke [illegible] Teddy [illegible] My [illegible] rather deep, Molly. [illegible] sister.”

Held Bowl Tenderly

[illegible] held it tenderly [illegible] Then she carried it into the front room and put it on the table right beside John's easy [illegible] and rushed out to the porch to snatch some rambler roses from the vines.

“Oh, I just love it all!” she cried as she stood back to survey the bowl of deep red roses.” I love this house and this room, and the kitchen and the dirty dishes and the work—and John.”

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

LIVING in the suburbs is a wonderful thing, but to a commuter, life is just one darn train after another.

HE usually gets to the station too late for one train and too early for the next.

HE spends his whole life trying to find the real estate agent who told him that the house was only five minutes from the depot.

HE couldn't possibly cover the distance in less than fifteen minutes if he took a fire-engine.

HE lived in a town where there are thirty trains a day and he couldn't catch any of them.

IF he wants to make a train today, he has to go down to the station yesterday.

HE doesn't have to worry about a seat, he can't even get on.

HE runs down to the station with a cup of coffee and a doughnut in one hand and his necktie in the other.

AND he's so excited that he puts the doughnut around his neck and dips the necktie in the coffee.

EVERY commuter has what you call Hoof and Mouth disease. Eat and run.

A SUBURBANITE never has much time. He grabs his clothes at home and dresses on the train.

THAT is, he dresses on the train if he can catch it.

VERY few commuters ever have time to say goodbye to the wife. They usually put their wrist out of joint throwing kisses back to her.

HE phones from the office that he's going to catch the five-thirty train home, so she plans dinner for nine o'clock.

A COMMUTER always figures on the morning train being late. If it happens to come in on time and he misses it, he sues the railroad.

IF he misses one train he stands out in the middle of the tracks so that the next one won't miss him.

ONE locomotive knocked a commuter into the next town but the conductor made him pay his fare anyway.

TELEPHONE SUPERVISOR

Tells of the Benefit Received by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Leavenworth, Kansas. — "My work was long-distance operating and supervising, and I got into a very nervous state and was all run-down. I was easily annoyed at trifles, was extremely nervous and always had a tired feeling which made me awfully listless. Through a newspaper I learned of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thinking it would help me I tried it. It quieted my nerves, I was less annoyed and more lively. It took away that dragging feeling and improved my health in every way. I was able to continue my work with more vigor than before and I recommend the Vegetable Compound to all young girls. I am married now and have a big baby boy and am in the best of health. If I should ever have any trouble I'll take the Vegetable Compound again, for I know it will help me as it did before." — Mrs. O. W. THIEL, 925 Pawnee St., Leavenworth, Kansas.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all these troubles. For sale by druggists everywhere.

PUTTING IT UP TO THE CHILD

By Lucy Lowell

WHEN the twins got old enough to pull themselves upright from the floor, and, balancing precariously against mother's dressing table, drag off the cover with all the things it held, the folks were delighted.

"It shows an investigative turn of mind," they said. "Probably Petey'll grow up to be an explorer and Peggy a scientist or something."

But it wasn't so delightful when they grew older and tore an expensive rug to pieces, cause "they wanted to see the threads come out."

After that nothing was safe. Petey drove nails into the shiny new library table and all but separated the piano from one of its legs experimenting with his new tool-kit.

"The rampagin' little imps," sputtered Hilda.

"Oh, not imps, Hilda," said Mother, tearfully. "But they are destructive and something must be done!"

So she told her troubles to a children's specialist, who assured her that all children are destructive, some more and some less.

Then he outlined a plan.

And Mother passed the plan along to the children. Daddy and herself, she explained, had decided to give them all the pretty things in the house, dividing everything equally between them.

Would Peggy like the piano. All right, then. It was hers. Yes, Petey could have the graphophone. And the rugs? Well, supposing Peggy took the one in the library and Petey the one in the living room. Fine. NOW—were they happy?

Oh, yes, the things were really and truly theirs. Just think of it—no other boy or girl had so much. And now they owned all the lovely tables and chairs and all, of course they'd want to keep them just as nicely as could be. No scratches or anything like that, you know, because folks who own things never, never allow their property to be damaged.

Did Petey and Peggy understand? And they were willing to see that everything was taken good care of?

They did and they were. And in the six months that the children have "owned" the house furnishings not so much as a thread or a splinter has come to grief through any action of theirs.

What the twins have done other children will do if Mothers and Dads care to try the method.

THE TIGER OF THE INSECT WORLD

By Foxy Grandpa.

IT wasn't the Fourth of July or anywhere near it, but a Chinaman who runs a laundry near us has given Bobby some firecrackers and several rockets. Because, you know, the Chinese shoot off firecrackers on all kinds of occasions. The Fourth of July means nothing in their calendar, naturally, and even if it did, they wouldn't wait for it.

Bobby was delighted and came running home with a broad grin on his little face.

Of course, he had to shoot some of those firecrackers off, and when evening came he decided to shoot off a skyrocket.

Out on the lawn he went, and I lit it for him and up it went.

"What makes that rocket go up in the sky like that, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby, as his blue eyes followed the fiery path of the rocket.

"When a rocket is fired," I answered, "a great quantity of gas rushes out from it and pushes against the air with such force that the rocket is driven upwards."

"I see," said Bobby.

The warm days came and with them all of the Summer insects. The trees were regular concert halls for these tiny creatures who buzzed and sang through the Summer days.

Among our visitors from the insect world came the handsome big dragon-flies. How they did dart around backwards and forwards, with their wings glistening in a hundred colors in the sunlight.

"Those dragon-flies never stay still," said Bobby one day as a big beauty flitted across our porch.

"They're always hungry and on the lookout for food," I said. "They're very fierce fellows, too, Bobby. They eat like tigers. They attack every creature which they find and eat it up. And do you know they are such fast fliers that they could beat a swallow in a race?"

"It that so!" mused Bobby. "What are they before they are dragon-flies, Foxy Grandpa?"

"Grubs," I answered.

"I'd like to see one, said Bobby.

"We'll have to watch down by the pond one day and perhaps you may see one. Because when a dragon-fly is a grub it lives in the water."

"And when it is a fly it comes on shore?" asked Bobby. "Isn't that funny!"

I had no peace until Bobby and I went to the pond in search of a gragon-fly grub. Bobby believes in attending to things at once and getting them off his mind, which I think is a very good trait, although it sometimes interferes with my cross-word puzzles.

So down to the pond we went and as luck would have it, we had hardly started to look down into the water before a little black object shot through the water. It stopped. Then shot ahead another time. In this way it made quite some progress and finally came close to the bank.

"Look at that thing zoom!" cried Bobby, as the little insect decided to go out into deeper water and shot away in several sharp jerks. "What is it, Foxy Grandpa, and how does it dart like that?"

"That," I answered, is a dragon-fly grub, Bobby. And it swims just like your rocket shot into the air—except that in the tiny tube in the grub's body is water, instead of gas. And when it expels the water from it the water pushes against the water of the pond and off it goes."

"A regular little water-rocket," laughed Bobby, his eyes dancing with pleasure.

ISN'T IT THE TRUTH?

By Beulah Van.

THE modern woman needs a great deal of true modesty to protect herself where her clothes do not.

Society is divided into two classes—the Diggers and the Dug.

A gilded lily may not be considered beautiful—but it might help some of the wall-flowers to be touched up a bit.

A woman will never be president of the United States. A candidate must be thirty-five years old, and where in this country could you find a woman who would admit to that?

Some people would like to go to Heaven when they die so that they can play a harp—while others would rather go elsewhere and play a ukelele.

One way to stop the excessive talkativeness of a woman is to ask her to say something nice about the neighbors.

There are few men whom a woman cannot catch in the long run—but most of them get out of breath from over-anxiety.

Beauty without brains is like a good line without a hook.

A girl would rather be placed on a pedestal while living than have a statue when dead.

"The best shelter for a girl in her 'teens is her mother's skirts"—but what modern girl could discover enough skirt to be of any shelter?

LISTEN, WORLD!

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By Elsie Robinson

MR. VOLSTEAD raised considerable fuss in this country when he challenged our ancient and inalienable right to Get Lit. But here comes a gentleman who would put the hobbles on an even ancient-er and inalienable-er prerogative—THE RIGHT TO ELOPE.

No more can Donald and his Dolly vault to Dobbin's back or cuddle in the cut-down and scoot to Gretna Green to consecrate their joint future to the service of the little pink god.

For here comes Thomas A. Maloney, California's State Senator, with a bill that's scheduled to take all the roam out of romance in one State at any rate.

Five Days' Law.

Senator Maloney's ANTI-ELOPEMENT BILL requires application for marriage license and posting of notice of intent to marry FIVE DAYS BEFORE THE CEREMONY.

Senator Maloney says the purpose of his bill is the prevention of hasty marriages and the subsequent annulments and divorces. And, at the time of writing, it looks as if the Senate has passed the bill by a vote of 28 to 8.

Well—what do you think about it? Would it be a good law? There's the case of the young Rives, for example.

Art Rives is nineteen years old—two years short of the legal marriage age in California. Dot Dickerson, whom Art adores with a deathless, eternal, undying passion, is seventeen—one year short of the right to dispose of her peppy little person.

Art, of course looks twenty-three—easily. Six feet tall, and football fit, Art is decidedly dry behind the ears. And Dot might be anything from twenty to thirty, according to the hair and complexion she happens to be wearing at the time.

Marry? Of course they're going to be married. And it will be a cinch. Next Friday afternoon Dot's going to ask if she can't stay overnight with Ellen and Art's going to go on a fishing trip with the Gang.

They'll meet at the back entrance of the Emporium and within forty-five minutes they'll have gone nearly as many miles in Art's cut-down. In fifteen minutes more they'll have sworn to all the necessary legalities and be as legally married as though they had a dozen masses said over their devoted heads.

Parents Furious.

Of course their parents will be Simply Furious when they find it out—but they won't find it out for a week or two and by that time it's highly improbable they'll want to annul it. So there you have the all too improbable setting for a speedy divorce, not merely because they married in fifteen minutes, but because they were too irresponsible to marry at all.

Senator Maloney's bill would prevent marriages like that, which is a big score in its favor. Likewise it would prevent marriages of gentlemen and ladies who have mates tucked away on the side.

This practice is becoming increasingly common, due to the expense and delay of divorce suits.

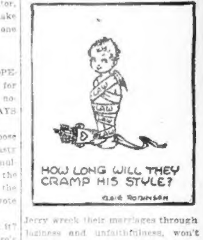
Quite often both parties are aware of the superfluous partners, but go through the ceremony as a mask and a convenience. Sometimes, however, either the girl or man is ignorant of the fraud and tragedy ensues.

Publication of the notice for five days would put a considerable dent in this sprightly program.

For these two classes of marriages, Senator Maloney's bill would offer wholesome relief. But how about the great masses of quiet, well behaved people, who are perfectly responsible and serious in their intentions, who have no pasts to hide or grevious schemes to work, but desire to keep their affairs decently to themselves?

Must they be penalized in this most intimate function of their lives because there are scamps and scallywags in the matrimonial line?

After all, will such a bill avert any divorces, save those contingent on immaturity or bigamy? If Joan and



LAW

HOW LONG WILL THEY CRAMP HIS STYLE?
ELSIE ROBINSON

Jerry wreck their marriages through laziness and unfaithfulness, won't that laziness and unfaithfulness wreck it just as surely if they take five days to get married as if they take five minutes?

For it isn't the form or the length of the marriage ceremony that makes the mischief. It's the character of the people themselves. And this is as true even of the immaturity and bigamy cases. Such irresponsibility and deceitfulness is going to end in trouble, though you try to foil it by a dozen laws.

It sounds like a good law. Maybe as laws go it IS a fine law. BUT AREN'T WE GETTING TOO MANY LAWS FOR OUR OWN GOOD? Isn't all this effort tending in the wrong direction? Can you ever LEGISLATE people into honesty and decency? Won't we merely exchange one form of spinelessness and unreliability for another?

DOESN'T THE REMEDY LIE IN EDUCATION INSTEAD OF LEGISLATION?

Sparkling Eyes and Clear Glowing Skin Come Back

After INDICAN Test Showed Cause of Pimples, Blackheads, Pale Skin and Sleepy, Dull Eyes.

Miss C. Manger, of 520 W. 174th St., New York City, who freed herself of Indican. Note clear skin.

It is amazing how a simple little test that thousands now are making can change you from a tired out person troubled with broken out skin, sallow complexion and dull eyes, to an energetic wide-awake person, feeling tip-top and looking tip-top, the kind everyone admires.

As long as there is Indican in your system you just cannot help having sick headaches, with bloated up stomach, dizziness, and no appetite, pale, pimply skin and lifeless dull eyes.

What is INDICAN?

Indican is the danger sign which shows that poisons and foul gases due to sluggish stomach, liver and bowels are seeping through your blood—into every muscle and every joint. Unless checked, these poisons are said to cause serious diseases. Yet, thousands have Indican and don't know it until too late. You may think you are free from it, but a test may surprise you.

Make the INDICAN TEST Yourself

Have urinalysis made, and if the chemist reports Indican present, or if you can "feel" how poisoned you are because of sluggish bowels, bilious attacks, sour, bloated up stomach, bad breath, headaches and poor appetite, immediately start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills and see how the Indican starts to disappear and how much better you feel in every way.

Carter's Little Liver Pills not only make the stomach, liver and bowels work in a fine healthy manner, but also have been found to drive the Indican out of the system.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Is an open-and-shut game now played by the big fellows?

Are our principal industries now so controlled by a few giants that they can play fast and loose with the public, raising prices at will?

Is the banking world under the unchallenged domination of a little clique of big financiers?

Has competition also been driven out of the railroad world? The reply of the man in the street to these question is a disgruntled "Yes."

Let's see.

The contest between J. P. Morgan & Co. and Dillon, Read & Co. for control of the Dodge Brothers automobile property reveals that there is competition in high finance. For years the rivalry between Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. has been the talk of Wall Street. There are today a larger number of powerful banking firms in New York than there ever were in the past, and the competition for desirable underwritings is intense. New York no longer has only two or three big banks and trust companies, but a dozen, each vigorously reaching out for a stronger grip upon the banking business of the city and country.

The quarrels over prospective consolidations of railroad systems in the East prove that the big railroads and those who dominate them do not all work hand in hand, but that each powerful system is out to battle for its own interests. The railroads may co-operate in handling labor problems, and on other questions affecting them all, but when it comes to holding for business or for expanding their structures by taking over other properties, then there is genuine warfare.

Would one of the two largest packing companies in the United States have been obliged to undergo reorganization recently if the big packers had been working in cahoots, as is popularly imagined they do? Or would the third largest packing concern now be in the hands of receivers had the leading packers all worked hand in glove to fleece the public?

Half of the iron and steel business of the country is done by the United States Steel Corporation. Here, if anywhere, one would expect absolute domination. Yet it is the daily complaint in the steel industry that prices today are on an unprofitable basis. Were the Steel Corporation to boost prices unduly, its competitors would ruin its business by underbidding. The second largest steel enterprise in America is not today paying any dividend on its common stock.

Are the public victims of any laying of heads together by automobile giants? Has competition vanished in this industry? One moment's thought convinces you that it certainly has not. Does Ford work in cahoots with other manufacturers? Does General Motors indulge in underhand scheming with Studebaker, Dodge, Willys, Durant, Chrysler, or other prominent motor manufacturers? Hardly.

* * *

John D. Ryan is often called "The Copper King." But if Ryan or anyone else could rule over the industry, would prices be dragging at unprofitably low levels and the earnings of copper companies be so sadly disappointing to stockholders?

If Standard Oil could exercise unlimited control of the oil industry, would demoralization have been permitted during the last two or three years?

Is there or is there not severe competition in the radio field?

General Electric admittedly is a power in its line, yet it does only a quarter of the total business, and all along has to take into the reckoning the competition waged by those who do the other 75 per cent. of the total business.

More money would be made in the shoe industry were there no real competition.

The whole economic trend unquestionably is toward bigness. But while monopoly may be the goal of the ultra-ambitious, that stage has not yet been approached. Competition is still operating.

If our financial and industrial giants are wise, they will not ride roughshod toward monopoly, for the American public have demonstrated emphatically that they know how to deal with monopolies.

RADIO ASSISTS IN THE WAR ON FRAUDS

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

While a good many people have needlessly lost money by unwisely placing it in highly speculative radio stocks, the radio itself is doing a notable mark in assisting the war on stock frauds.

This was brought afresh to the writer's attention when he heard R. F. Murphy of the Boston Better Business Commission giving a resume of the time spent behind prison bars by at least one of those advocating in a so-called "financial paper" the purchase of securities held to be rather highly hazardous. Mr. Murphy was talking over WNAC whose nation-wide audience on several occasions has also heard the writer sound warnings against unwisely gambling with the "nest egg."

Mr. Murphy expressed one happy thought which especially bears repeating. It is that, when you receive some lurid stock promotion literature, you should not throw it in the fire or waste basket, but forward it to honest financial authorities that they may investigate and perhaps save others from being defrauded.

A few minutes previously we listened to WBZ, over which Professor Glenn Newton Merry was giving a talk under the auspices of the Massachusetts Department of Education. His instructions on how to cultivate the memory seemed especially good, one idea being to associate the thing to be remembered with some facial characteristic whenever possible.

Suppose your wife asked you to bring home beans for the Saturday evening meal. No doubt the mouth would be the portion of the face most apt to be associated with baked beans. Then help yourself to remember also by associating the thing to be remembered with the throat. It should not be possible for any Bostonian to forget the taste of baked beans.

Is the radio educational? Who can deny it?

Congress threatens to take up the regulation of interstate bus and truck transportation, which would bring Federal "regulation" of business into a new field. It is safe to assume, however, that State laws affecting buses and trucks will continue to vary for a good many years to come. In New England we do not hear that they have so far been found particularly burdensome.

Impression that the weekly pass ticket tried out in Leominster has proved itself successful appears to be unwarranted. The most of these passes sold in any one week has been 100. The passes are sold for 75 cents and are good for an unlimited number of rides over the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway lines in Leominster. The passes are transferrable.

The Worcester Consolidated will shortly petition Department of Public Utilities for extension of the three months' trial period in which it has been experimenting with the weekly pass. Immediately following introduction of this new fare scheme the biggest industrial plant in Leominster shut down while the other plants have been in the doldrums for some time. Thus the company feels that the new plan has not had a fair trial.

The plan might prove helpful to some of our distressed street railways. It might prove less costly to experiment with than $[illegible] buses.

BULLS ACTIVE IN NEW YORK MARKET

Market's ability to withstand selling pressure inspired by the news of Hindenburg's election and the announcement of Great Britain's return to the gold standard encouraged extension of bullish operations during the morning New York trading.

Public utilities whose current earnings are large or in which favorable developments are believed to be pending were particularly favored, Federal Light & Traction soaring 8¾ points. West Penn Power 4 and American Express and Utah Securities 2¾ each. Motors and shippings also were in good demand.

Despite the recent gain in department and chain store sales, S. S. Kresge broke another 15 points to 355, following its 20-point break of the day before. Air Reduction fell back 3 points.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe jumped 8½ points, while Kelsey Wheel, General Electric, International Business Machine and American Can sold 2 to 4 points higher. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

American Woolen preferred sold a point higher at 80 in Boston Stock Exchange trading today. Island Creek Coal lifted 2 points at 125. Eastern Mass. St. Ry. adjustment stock yielded a point at 42.

Elsewhere changes in active issues were fractional and mostly on the down side.

Atlas Tack, reflecting recent good earnings statement, sold at a new high for the year. New England Telephone sold at its recent low of 99, at which point it is meeting Gibraltar-like support.

CERRO EARNINGS FOR PAST YEAR ARE LARGER

Boston listed Cerro de Pasco Copper Corp. for 1924 reports net of $3,224,327, after providing for taxes, interest, depreciation and depletion. This is equivalent to $2.87 a share on 1,122,662 shares of no par against $2,699,865, or $2.67 on 1,009,322 shares outstanding in 1923.

WINNING "LAST LINE"

For Limerick No. 56

(Published Tuesday, April 21)

First prize of $25 won by Mrs. L. McGuigan of R. F. D. No. 1, Ashenlot, New Hampshire, with "last line" printed below:

They say change is the spice of our lives,
On variety happiness thrives.
But also—some "knaves,"
Like "permanent waves"—
But prefer them on other men's wives.

MORE EXTRA PRIZES FOR LIMERICKS

More extra prizes for Jingle fans!

This time the Boston Evening American presents to its Limerick enthusiasts one of the most practical articles to be found—of high-grade value—useable all the time—and with which fans may make out their winning "last lines."

It is the John Hancock Cartridge Pen, built for long service with a cartridge of ink that will write 20,000 words before it runs dry. Five of these fine fountain pens, valued at $5.00 each, will be awarded to Jinglers sending in clever last lines to today's Limerick. These are to be given in addition to the regular prizes of $25 for first and 15 one-dollar prizes.

This pen is made in Boston by the Pollock Pen Company and distributed all over the world, with an unlimited guarantee of service. When the cartridge is empty it is removed and another slipped in to take its place—then you are ready to write more Limerick last lines.

WELL WORTH EFFORT.

Three filled cartridges in a metal case will go with each pen in an attractive gift box. Each of these cartridges will last two or three months. Then refills may be obtained anywhere in blue, black, green or red ink at 15 cents a package of three cartridges. Shoot in your "brain children," folks, and win one of these corking pens. They are well worth whatever effort you make.

The following persons were awarded one pair of best orchestra seats, valued at $4.40 for tonight's performance of "Baby Blue" at the Wilbur Theatre, for submitting clever "last lines" to Jingle No. 58: Mrs. F. Davis, No. 23 Sacramento street, Cambridge; Herbert N. Bradford, P. O. Box 302, Lynn; Mrs. Celia Moynihan of No. 21 Blossom street, Boston; Helen Emerson Sanders, No. 47 Waterston avenue, Wollaston, and Mrs. Jesse Eddy, No. 54 Oakley road, Belmont, Mass.

"Baby Blue" is an unusually tuneful and funny farce-comedy with musical setting, featuring Irene Dunne, and opened its run in this city last evening. It has one of the snappiest choruses of the season. Miss Dunne is favorably remembered by Boston theatregoers for her excellent work in "Irene," "Lollipop" and "The Clinging Vine." Her big opportunity came when she understudied Edith Day in "Irene."

J. P. Salisbury of Providence, R. I., another prize winner, sent thanks in the following words: "Thanks for the second Limerick dollar. I feel that I have now struck my stride and am anxious to see how my name looks on a twenty-five dollar check. I realize that signatures do vary much and it is what is over them that counts, so I will bear that in mind in the future and see if I can put a "last line" over my signature that will look like twenty-five dollars."

"Your check of $1.000 received and I thank you. Rest assured my friends all know of my good luck and many are going to enter into the race.

YOUTHS ENJOY TEST.

Many youths are enjoying the Jingle tournament as is evidenced by the following letter from sixteen-year-old Edmund Williams.

"I am a boy of sixteen years of age. Ever since I have been able to read I have read some part of the Boston Evening American. Whenever I felt like reading I decided to look through the Boston Evening American. I am now sending in my "last lines" to you hoping they will prove a success and not a failure."

ANHEUSER-BUSCH NOW BUILDS AUTO BODIES

Anheuser-Busch, Inc., brewing corporation of St. Louis organized fifty years ago as E. Anheuser & Co., is seeking new charter with $18,000,000 proposed capital of shares of $100 par value compared with present capital cconsisting of 480 shares of $500 par value. Stockholders comprising descendants of founders will receive 375 new shares of $100 par value for each old $500 share. Increase in capitalization represents reinvestment of large turnover has been topheavy for its capital, management explained. Although no dividends have been paid since prohibition, President August A. Busch says company has made satisfactory progress in its adoption of other manufactures, including automobile body building, meat packing and non-alcoholic beverages.

Taxation That Is Folly

It Is the Kind that Discourages or Drives Out Industry, and Prevents Full Development of Unusual Ability

Here are some taxation mottoes—several "Buts" go with them:

"Put the burden on the broad, strong back able to bear it."

"Let wealth pay for the protection that the government gives it."

"Let the prosperous man, owner of land, bonds or any other form of wealth bear in mind that he is an owner ONLY while the government protects him, and an owner no longer when government protection is withdrawn or grows weak."

"When little men are expected to give their lives without a murmur to protect their government, in war, big rich men should not murmur if asked to give some of their dollars to pay government expenses in time of peace."

All of that has a fine sound, and much of it is true.

But, there are various "BUTS"—

It should be remembered that PROPERTY is not the ONLY thing that government protects. Government also protects HUMAN LIFE, the right of the feeble man to exist without being knocked over the head by the stronger man. And protection of HUMAN LIFE is a function of government, even MORE important than protection of property.

Therefore ALL in proportion to their means should contribute to the support of the government, the PROTECTOR of all.

At Monte Carlo they run a big gambling house, the Prince of Monaco owns it, and gets the net profits. But first they take from the gambling house enough to pay all the expenses of running the principality of Monaco, and the city of Monte Carlo.

That makes it pleasant for property owners who are taxed lightly or not at all. But that isn't THE AMERICAN IDEA.

This is a republic, a democracy, or at least it is supposed to be.

In a real democracy we all should share in the POWERS of government, and all should share in the burden of government.

In old Roman days, free BREAD was distributed among the people.

Free FIGHTS in a great arena were arranged for their delight, men fighting men, ships fighting each other on an artificial sea, lions, tigers, bears, all savage animals, let loose to fight each other. And for the mob, the tickets were FREE.

Free bread, free fights, that pleased the mobs following their "patrons" through the streets of Rome. But that system wouldn't please the UNITED STATES.

Here we want independence, and there is no independence unless each man in proportion to his means PAYS his share.

This applies to taxes as well as to everything else. Naturally a certain minimum should be EXEMPT. In addition to that, the man with children should be allowed to deduct income taxes for every one of the children, and a most LIBERAL reduction, far more liberal than the law now allows in the case of relatively poor men.

Various schemes advocated in the State of Wisconsin and elsewhere that would practically create within the State a TAX PAYING and a TAX FREE body are not AMERICAN SCHEMES.

Put the load of taxation on the broad backs able to carry it, by all means; also put a heavy load, the howdah and tiger hunters, on the back of the elephant able to carry the big load. Don't put on that elephant's back a load so heavy as to make him lie down and refuse to move.

The elephant should carry his SHARE, but as you value your elephant, or your powerful camel with wide, spongy feet, able to travel over the desert, beware how you overload your elephant or camel. Those noble beasts at last lie down, and in your effort to get TOO MUCH SERVICE you will get NO SERVICE.

So it is with taxation. Don't discourage especial ability, don't make the man combining intelligence and capital say to himself: "The more I try, the more I am taxed. I might as well imitate others, invest my money where it won't pay taxes, instead of bothering my head employing men, going into new enterprises, creating payrolls and production."

Taxation should be JUST, WISE, carefully thought out. It should not be based on any stupid desire TO PUNISH SOMEBODY FOR SUCCEEDING.

Above all, it should not aim to divide the United States into two classes, TAX PAYING and TAX FREE.

Excessive taxation, discouraging effort, results in increasing the idle class, the number of lives devoted to self-indulgence and pleasure based on income safely put beyond the tax collector's reach. Men will not use their brains creating industry, employing men, building new enterprises, merely to have their profits taken from them by unjust and excessive taxation, while THEY are left to bear the LOSSES that go inevitably with the careers of all enterprising men.

In actual war, when you take one man's LIFE, it is of course all right to take another man's PROPERTY, not only his income, but every dollar that he has, IF THE NATION NEEDS IT.

Nothing is sacred, neither the right to property nor the right to life, when the life of the nation itself is at stake.

But there is no excuse for continuing idiotic, excessive, discouraging taxation in peace time. As well continue military conscription in peace. For self-respecting men here in America, nothing could be more unworthy, more undemocratic, than the effort to create an enormous class of self-confessed INCOMPETENTS, contributing nothing to their government, seeking to put upon a few more able men, or richer men, the entire burden of government.

Taxation is a problem that interests the so-called "little man" more than the big man.

Tax the very rich man as you will, the big man will always have ENOUGH. You may drive him away from useful work and cause him to close up his factory or his other business by taxes that discourage him.

But he will have ENOUGH LEFT FOR HIMSELF.

But the men that lack work when his factory is closed have a DIFFERENT story to tell.

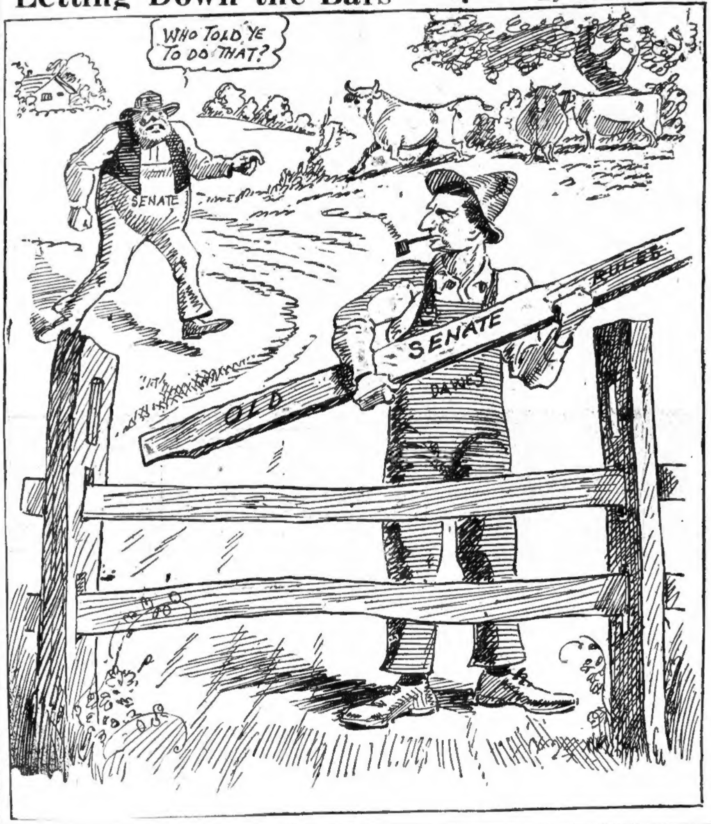
Heavy and discouraging taxes, laid of course with the best of intentions, but based ON THEORY AND NOT ON COMMON SENSE, will injure and drive out vitally necessary industrial enterprises.

Unwise taxation, excessive and "theoretical," will injure industry, discourage enterprise and diminish prosperity everywhere.

Such taxation is not statesmanship. It is dangerous, foolish, theorizing. The people of Wisconsin and of every State where such taxation is paid or planned, should read once more the story of the goose that laid the golden eggs.

Industry and enterprise are the American producers of golden eggs. LET THEM LIVE.

Letting Down the Bars -:- By T. E. Powers



MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By Helen Rowland

HEAR now, the Song of Songs, which is the Song of Youth! For lo, the foolish man saith in his heart, "Alas, I am waxing old. Now, shall I settle down and take mine ease!"

Helen Rowland

But the wise man saith in his heart, "Hola! I shall be young all the days of my life! For the Fountain of Youth springeth eternal in my heart. And, neither time nor sorrow of all the years shall quench it!"

Verily, he speaketh with the tongue of wisdom. For lo, if Boston is a state of mind, and California a state of imagination, YOUTH is a state of spirit!

Wherefore, then, oh ye Foolish, do ye seek after serums, and miracles, and faith in beauty cults and potions and wonder-workers?

For, a man is old, not when he loseth the might of his golf-arms—but when he loseth his interest in the GAME.

Not when he loseth his last tooth, but when he loseth his last hope.

Not when the last hair falleth from his head, but when the last illusion falleth from his eyes!

Yea, verily, every man is as young as his dreams—and as old as his cynicism.

As young as his courage—and as old as his fears.

As young as his loves—and as old as his hates.

As young as his capacity for joy—and as old as his indifference.

As young as his imagination—and as old as his materialism.

Then, I charge thee, call NO man old, as long as he possesseth the spirit of ADVENTURE, and rejoiceth in the game of life!

Count NO man old, who still hath the heart to start a new enterprise, learn a new game, or fall in love with a woman!

For, verily, verily, whatsoever the calendar may say of his years, a man is as old or as young as his ENTHUSIASMS!

And, when these have petrified, no serums, no doctors, no golf, and no miracle can help him!

SELAH.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

"LIFE, I would drink of your rarest cup, honor and happiness brimming up; I would be warmed at your brightest fires, I would be fed with my heart's desires. Give me the glory that few possess, power and pride and supreme success; these are the goals where my high hopes soar; I would gain all of them, Life—and more!" Such are the pleas that the suppliants make. Life has the power to build or to break; life can pour into men's lifted palms ashes or laurel wreath, jewels or alms. Few are the pleaders who humbly ask: "Life, I would welcome a useful task; I would be glad of a chance to aid brothers who sorrow and go dismayed." Yet, of Life's treasures for sage or for king, none is so fair as this simple thing; gift supreme is a heart and hand that can love men and serve as the great Love planned.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PLANT TREES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE American Tree Association of Washington, under the leadership of Charles Lathrop Pack, asks the members of a community jointly owning a town forest not for one minute to tolerate a citizen who leaves a match smoldering in the woods.

It asks, Why not have a community forest near town, why not a Memorial avenue?

Tree planting time is at hand. Now is the time to make the plans for a town forest for next year while everybody is thinking about trees.

In many cities and towns there is land that has reverted to the community for non-payment of taxes, or land that is lying fallow and paying only a mite of return in taxes. The first type of land has become the locality's own and the second can be acquired for very little.

Many towns own properties in the form of hospitals, asylums, poor farms, or other institutional establishments.

Most cities and towns have water reservoirs that must be protected by a watershed of trees in the interest of public health.

Why not create a Memorial forest?

Going farther than this feature of general education, the town forest becomes an adjunct of the schools. Within its confines nature and forestry can be studied. Having been set aside and protected, the area becomes a sanctuary and refuge for wild life of all kinds. It becomes the centre of the recreational activity of the community as well, and helps along in the great movement toward the outdoors.

Thus the town forest can pay for itself in dollars and cents, declare dividends every day in the year in healthful and valuable services to the community, and open the door to the work of conserving the many gifts of Nature.

As a part of the educational campaign the American Tree Association wants thousands of new members in the tree-planting army. It will send you, for a two-cent stamp, tree-planting suggestions and a tree-day program. It will send you an application blank to fill out so that your tree can be registered on the national honor roll. The association wants you to celebrate the centennial of Arbor Day in 1972 by planting the trees now.

The week of April 27 is National Garden Week. This date coincides with Forest Protection Week.

What finer memorial than a tree? This is an army all should join.

The suggestion of the American Tree Association is entitled to our heartiest support.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

The seeds of knowledge may be planted in solitude, but must be cultivated in public.

Congratulations to a Happy Couple

Good Citizenship, Charity and a Useful Life—These Bring True Happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus celebrate today the 50th anniversary of their wedding. It is indeed a GOLDEN WEDDING day, and thousands rejoice with them and congratulate this happy YOUNG couple.

Youth and happiness shine in their faces. Those that do good do not grow old.

The city of New York in which they live and the whole country congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Straus on this happy day. They have worked together as they have lived together, for the good of others, and for the children of others.

The long fight, dating back nearly half a century, which Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus have made against impure poisonous milk, and the generous giving of their time and their money to the free distribution of pure milk to the poor, not only in New York but in other cities and in Europe, has saved a number of lives incalculable.

In New York, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Straus, the death rate among children has been cut down more than half, in public institutions, among the poor classes who were unable for lack of pure milk and also lack of refrigeration, to protect the children from disease germs.

Directly,* BY THEIR OWN GENEROSITY AND GIVING, Mr. and Mrs. Straus have saved actually thousands upon thousands of children. And indirectly by awakening the public conscience, causing laws against bad milk to be passed, they have been the cause of saving lives whose numbers will mount into millions as time passes.

Congratulating and honoring Mr. Nathan Straus and his wife today, the public honors a family, singularly distinguished in useful citizenship and public honor.

Nathan Straus's older brother was Isidor Straus, one of New York's most useful and deservedly honored citizens. The public has not forgotten the loss caused by his death on the Titanic. And it will not forget the picture of that courageous old man, quietly awaiting death, on the deck of the doomed ship, vainly urging his devoted wife to leave his side and take her place in one of the life boats, toward which, by the way, many a young man was desperately struggling.

Oscar, the youngest of the three Straus brothers, like the others, has been an honor to his father and mother, a useful citizen and servant of this country in which he was born.

He has acted on important national commissions, has twice represnted this country as ambassador abroad, and served with distinction in the Cabinet of the United States under Thodore Roosevelt.

Consider those three brothers, their public service, their devotion to the public welfare, their benevolence and philanthropy. What better rebuke that those three upright men could possibly be found for the disseminators of race and religious hatred, the narrow, vicious and ignorant minds that violate the first laws of good citizenship, by seeking to set up class and racial animosities?

This newspaper and its readers join in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus upon this day that celebrates 50 years of happy married life.

May this exemplary pair live very long, as an example and an inspiration to others.

AN EVOLUTION OF THE DARK AGES

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

IN perusing a very interesting book, published by the American Geographical Society, on "The Geographical Lore of the Time of the Crusades," by John Kirtland Wright, I came recently upon an example of independence of thought and incipient scientific acumen in the "dark ages," that it would do everybody good to think over, especially just now when reactionary forces are striving to hamper scientific education, and to limit its field.

In the first half of the eleventh century, a philosopher famous in his day, but virtually fallen into oblivion at the present time, Theodoric (or Thierry) of Chartres, published a book on the "Works of the Six Days," (De Sex Dierum Operibus), which, as Mr. Wright remarks, "amazes us in a writer of his time."

This old-time thinker, surrounded by the atmosphere of an "age of faith," whose suppression of independent thought would have satisfied the most fanatical believer in the utter contemptibility of everything human, dared to undertake an explanation of the works of the six days (the six "creative days" of Genesis), "according to physical principles." Think of that, for that time! It was a virtual challenge to the strict constructionism of the Bible.

Theodoric "believed that the best way to attain a genuine knowledge of God was through an accurate understanding of what God had created," and "he proposed to avoid all allegorical and moral interpretations of Scripture."

With no more precise scientific knowledge than the bold thinker of Chartres possessed, a Huxley, or a Tyndall could hardly have given a more rational account of the matter than he did. It is the spirit that giveth life.

Mr. Wright presents an outline of Theodoric's explanation of the Creation, which is partly as follows:

"In Genesis I., 2, we read the words, 'And the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.' Theodoric explained that by 'the waters' was meant the whole of matter: the 'spirit of God' was that which was destined to give order and form to the chaos, that is to say the 'force which fashioned,' or 'operated' (virtus artifex or virtus operatrix).

Plato had called this force the World, the Christians called it the Holy Ghost, and through its agency the evolution of the universe out of chaos by physical processes was rendered possible."

Now listen to the next. "Coincidently with the creation of the original materia the universe had assumed a rotary motion, each complete rotation marking a day."

Theodoric then goes on to explain, in the uncertain light of the faint and quaint scientific conceptions of his time, how, by physical forces and processes which the Creator had made his agents—and what more does science claim today?—the atmosphere, water, the clouds, the dry land, etc., came into existence.

When the land had appeared, "like islands that are formed when water dries on a table," then, "immediately the heat of the atmosphere was mingled with the humors of the earth, and the latter thereby received the power of producing vegetable life, herbs and trees. . . . .

On the fifth day the heat of the universe brooded over (incubuit) the waters of the earth's surface and gave birth to fish and birds. Finally on the sixth day the life-giving heat reached the earth, and from it the animals were created, including, of course, man."

Disregard the crudeness of the physical conceptions, due to lack of scientific knowledge, and consider the spirit of free inquiry, which is the soul of science itself, that this man displayed at a time when western Europe was flinging itself into mad crusades under the lead of fanatics like Peter the Hermit. Yet in the scheme of the rational "world soul" the crusades themselves were upward steps in the evolution of humanity.
